TRUMAN FIRES GENERAL MacARTHUR

Defence Budget Increases Income Tax

Refused To Obey Orders

The President said he had concluded that MacArthur "is unable to give his wholehearted support" to United States and United Nations policies.

Truman immediately designated Lieut.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway as MacArthur's successor as Supreme Commander, Allied Powers; Commander in Chief, United Nations Command; Commander in Chief, Far East, and Commanding General, U.S. Army, Far East.

Truman asserted that "military commanders must be governed" by policies and directives of the Government and "in time of crises, this consideration is particularly compelling."

PICKS VAN FLEET

The President appointed Lieut.-Gen. James A. van Fleet to succeed Ridgway in active command of the Eighth Army in Korea.

Announcement of the almost unprecedented dismissal of the general was made at a press conference at the White House at 1 a.m. E.S.T. The time was fixed to coincide as nearly as possible with the delivery to MacArthur in Tokyo of the order relieving him of his commands, "effective at once."

The President's order, telegraphed to MacArthur over the army network, was brief and pointed:

"I deeply regret that it becomes my duty as President and Commander in Chief of the United States Military Forces to replace you . . .

"You will turn over your commands, effective at once, to Lieut.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway. You are authorized to have issued such orders as are necessary to complete desired travel to such places as you select. . . ."

DIFFER OVER POLICY

The President's action came as the aftermath of a series of differences with MacArthur over policy in the Far East and raised prospects that MacArthur might return to the United States to deliver a series of blasts against the Administration, probably under auspices of his Republican supporters.

The President asserted that MacArthur's place in history "as one of our greatest commanders" is fully established.

Aware of political reverberations certain to follow in the wake of his action, the President made public a series of heretofore secret directives to show that MacArthur failed to follow administrative foreign policy.

These included one from the Joint Chiefs of Staff to MacArthur and other commanders on December 6, 1950, embracing a Presidential order that no speech, press release, or other public statement concerning foreign or military police should be released until it had been cleared by either the Department of State or the Department of Defence.

To this was attached another memo from the Joint Chiefs to MacArthur, March 30, 151, asserting that the State Department was planning an announcement shortly that "with clearing of bulk of South Korea of aggressors, United Nations now prepared to discuss conditions of settlement in Korea" and adding:

"Strong U.N. feeling persists that further diplomatic efforts towards settlement should be made before any advance with major forces north of 38th Parallel.

"Time will be required to determine diplomatic reactions and permit new negotiations that may develop."

The New York Times four days later quoted MacArthur as offering to confer in the field with the commander-in-chief of the enemy forces "in an earnest effort to find any military means" to end the war.

Top Commander Replaced

LIEUT. GEN. MATTHEW B. RIDGWAY

GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR

News of removal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from all commands in the Far East early today was coupled to the naming of Lieut. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway to replace him.

News Hits Japan Like Thunderclap

Staff officers, discussing the report of the impending action before the White House press conference, all said they did not believe the President would take such a step.

"If the President does that," said one officer, "he will lose the next election—and then some."

The news astounded the Japanese. MacArthur has been their unofficial emperor for more than five years.

It was delivered to the general by a senior aide, Col. Sid Huff.

Huff said Gen. MacArthur received the news without comment. He indicated the general had no forewarning that he was being relieved.

"Facilities Right"

Regional Planning Need Stressed by Oberlander

A new plea for a regional planning board embracing all four Greater Victoria municipalities was made her yesterday by R. Peter Oberlander, professor of planning and design at the University of British Columbia.

Professor Oberlander, addressing a luncheon meeting of members of Victoria's Town Planning Commission, said Greater Victoria and the southern tip of Vancouver Island had tremendous possibilities for development, but would have to advance or fall together.

"I plead with you that regional planning (as distinct from individual town planning) will help you fulfill your great destiny," he said.

Also attending the luncheon were Mayor Percy George, city aldermen and reeves of Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

Professor Oberlander had the support of Mayor George, who invited the three outer municipalities "to at least get together" with the city and talk over the formation of a regional board as well as separate town planning commissions.

Professor Oberlander said the real function of planning was to anticipate future developments in an area and to devise schemes to meet them. It was an assurance that schools, hospitals and other facilities would come at the right time, in the right place, and in the right size, he said.

As an example of joint planning he cited the Lower Mainland Regional Planning Board, which includes six cities, 16 districts, three villages and a considerable amount of unorganized territory in the Fraser Valley.

Car Stolen— Dog Goes, Too

Here's a new twist to car thefts.

"The only trouble is," said Mrs. White in worried tones, "that the dog is too good-natured."

Unhappy Prospect

Man-in-Street Thankful Abbott Budget No Worse

By BARNEY McKINLEY

Victorians were looking up from hockey play-offs last night to face the sobering details of the 1951 "bad news" budget.

Already down to his last two play-off tickets, the man-in-the-street found himself faced with a cold-war cost reckoning.

It wasn't a happy prospect.

He was going to have to pay more for cigarettes, the poor man's solace. He would have to dig deeper to meet a personal income tax bumped a fifth from last year's.

NOT TOO MAD

With an eye on the Korean situation the little man wasn't doing too much complaining and he was thankful for the few crumbs that fell his way from the budget table.

One ray of sunshine was the unexpected retention of present liquor taxes.

The general public apparently had been prepared for a liquor price increase. Across Canada liquor vendors had been doing above-normal business as citizens stocked up.

The youngsters also might get a break. Excise tax on candy, chocolate and gum was chewed down to 15 per cent from 30.

NOT NECESSARILY

That doesn't necessarily mean the juvenile population had a free ticket to the Big Rock Candy Mountain. Experts refused to say the gum-and-candy makers would would pass on the tax saving.

But it looked hopeful.

There were other minor boons, too, such as maintenance of present income tax exemptions and a broadening of exemptions for certain expenses and medical costs.

ZERO HOUR

But mostly the fiscal pendulum was swung the other way. Zero hour had struck for the average pocketbook as the Government started tapping the reserves to keep the defence program on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Going home from the hockey game the Victoria man-in-the-street seemed most disappointed over a new tax that hit him right where he lives.

He was grumbling not a little about the 15-per-cent excise on stoves, washing machines and refrigerators.

He also hinted broadly at a gloomy future for the taxpayer — with heavier levies — if the international

"Citizens Getting Fed Up"

Council's Cold Shoulder Fails To Stem Tirade by Joe North

By GORDON FORBES

An otherwise dull City Council meeting yesterday was enlivened by a visit from Christopher Roland (Joe) North, well-known Victorian.

Mr. North had a complaint about a section of Johnson Street and he arrived at the council chambers to let the city fathers know about it.

"The citizens are getting fed up," he told the council. "My street is in a disgraceful condition."

"Now, just a minute, Joe, I mean Mr. North," interrupted Mayor Percy E. George. "Does the council want to hear Mr. North?"

Aldermen didn't seem too eager, but Mr. North kept right on talking. It seems he put in a petition some time ago and wasn't satisfied with council action.

WARNING FROM MAYOR

"Now, I don't want to get cross, Mr. North," said the Mayor, "but if you don't obey I'm going to have you evicted."

"I am asking you to leave," replied Mayor George. "If you put in a proper application to be heard, this council will hear you. But you must make application in plenty of time before the meeting."

JOE NORTH

Mr. North continued about his street.

"The trouble with you is you won't listen to anyone but yourself," said Mayor George who, by this time, was getting exasperated.

"Goodnight, gentlemen," said Mr. North, starting to leave. "But the citizens are getting fed up. Yep, fed up."

IMPROPERLY DRAWN

Frank Hunter, City Clerk, explained to the Mayor Mr. North's petition had been referred to the public works committee and the engineer by the council. The petition was not properly drawn up.

"You can make your representations to the public works committee," advised Mayor George.

Mr. North continued to elaborate on his road complaint.

"For the last time, Mr. North, will you kindly leave the council chamber—or sit down and behave," pleaded Mayor George.

Mr. North left.

Cigarette, Tobacco Levy Among Many Going Up

OTTAWA, April 10 (CP)—A 20-per-cent jump in personal income taxes and stiff increases in levies on cigarettes, tobacco and other commodities, were announced tonight by Finance Minister Abbott in a defence preparedness budget.

He left basic personal income-tax rates and exemptions unchanged—for the time being at least—but slapped a 20-per-cent defence tax on the amount the taxpayer already pays through his payroll deductions.

He rejected requests for a system of price controls to keep down the skyrocketing cost of living.

Nor did he favor an excess profits tax on corporation earnings.

The new personal defence tax becomes effective July 1 next; the commodity tax changes start immediately.

Corporation income taxes, along with an increase imposed in last September's "baby" budget, get another boost, retroactive to January 1.

SALES TAX UP

The general sales tax—which applies to one-third of the things the average family buys—jumps immediately to 10 per cent from 8 per cent.

Cigarettes go up three cents a package of 20 and tobacco a corresponding amount. Cigarette papers and tubes become tax-free.

The special excise tax of 15 per cent on motor cars, radios, furs, jewelry and other luxuries goes up to 25 per cent.

A 15-per-cent excise tax is being imposed on household refrigerators, washing machines and cooking stoves. It won't apply to cooking stoves using coal or wood.

NO CHANGE

Taxes on beer and liquor, increased last September, remain unchanged.

New tariff changes, effective immediately, reduce or eliminate duties on equipment used by farmers, fishermen and mining companies.

Mr. Abbott set his sights on a balanced budget and estimated he would end the fiscal year with a $30,000,000 surplus—the sixth consecutive surplus since the end of the World War. In his budget speech last year, he forecast a surplus of $15,000,000 and ended the year with a surplus of $203,456,000.

Mr. Abbott, placing this 1951-52 budget before a crowded Commons, dealt extensively with the rising cost of living, termed it a "world-wide" problem and again rejected requests for a general system of controls to keep down prices.

The Government, he said, still doesn't think it is time to take such measures.

GLOOMY HINTS

He also hinted broadly at a gloomy future for the taxpayer — with heavier levies — if the international

"Last Fling"

Taxes, Curbs on Credit Push Goods Out of Reach

By W. T. GALT
Colonist Business Editor

New excise tax increases coupled with last month's drastic tightening of instalment-buying restrictions, puts most expensive electrical goods and luxuries even further beyond the reach of average salary and wage earners, Victoria dealers said last night.

"This is probably the last fling as far as the average-salaried buyer goes," one appliance dealer said on hearing of the new tax measures.

He said the increased excise taxes would add about $60 to the price of the average refrigerator now selling for $400 and about $60 on the most popular radios.

Another dealer said the new tax on household appliances would particularly hit young couples seeking to establish homes.

"We'll have to be content with a smaller volume of sales," another dealer said.

One jeweler pointed out that the combination of a sales tax increase from 8 to 10 per cent and the excise tax increase raised the total tax on jewelry to 35 per cent, an increase of 12 per cent overall.

He said this would finally work out to an increase of at least 15 per cent in jewelry prices.

A Victoria manufacturer said that the new excise increase would result in a slow-down in sales that would soon reflect back to the manufacturer's level.

The manufacturer said tightening of instalment buying laws had already been reflected in a drop in orders.

Most merchants said prices in city stores today would probably be the same as yesterday's.

"The stock already in the jewelry stores will be sold at the same prices," a jeweler said.

He said the public probably would not find price increases in most jewelry lines "for five or six months."

An appliance dealer said prices in his store would probably not go up "for a day or two."

Five of These in One Garden

A favorite hiding place of the dreaded black widow spiders, fairly common in Victoria district, is under rocks. But Mr. and Mrs. Wight, 2731 Mount Stephen Avenue, found more than their share for one day—five. The monster above is a model many times normal size. Actual size varies from one to 1¼ inches across, including legs. Black widows are highly poisonous, but no deaths as a result of bites have been recorded in this area.

Venomous Black Widows Appear on Spring Scene

That unwholesome harbinger of Spring, the black widow spider—made its annual appearance in Victoria yesterday.

Last year about this time a Victoria boy was sent to hospital after being bitten by one of the venomous arachnidas.

This time there were no accidents, although five of the species were found by Mr. and Mrs. A. Wight, 2731 Mount Stephen Avenue, while they were moving rocks in their garden.

The Wights wasted no time killing three of the dangerous spiders. Two were carefully transported in a bottle to the Provincial Museum where they were identified by Dr. Clifford Carl.

POTENTIAL KILLERS

Deaths in Southern United States have been attributed to the bite of a female of the species.

Authorities here said they did not believe any fatalities had been charged to the black widow in Canada, but warned its bite can cause severe poisoning.

The black widow is recognizable by its glossy black appearance and the globular body. The female has red marking on the under side.

Highway Hole Proves Hazard To Motorists

R.C.M.P. highway patrol officers yesterday warned motorists using the Island Highway between Parsons Bridge and Colwood Corner to be on the lookout for a dangerous hole in the road that has already been responsible for two accidents.

Police say a car driven by C. F. Leonard, 3101 Tillicum, was damaged when it was in collision with the rear of a truck which stopped suddenly to avoid the hole. The truck was driven by Robert J. Brown, 680 Island Highway.

Cars driven by Morris B. Grossman 1355 Mitchell Street, and Henry S. Jang, Honeymoon Bay, were damaged about $75 in a similar accident at the same place on Sunday, according to police.

They expect the hole to be filled in some time today.

Hansard Reporting System Urged For Debates in Provincial House

IN THE LEGISLATURE

The Legislature will sit as a committee on estimates again today at 2:30 p.m.

By LAWRIE JOSLIN

A request for a Hansard system of verbatim reporting of Legislature debates was asked yesterday by Opposition Leader Harold Winch.

He told the Legislature it had come to his attention a court stenographer, employed by Aluminum Company of Canada, had been in the public galleries taking a verbatim record of Alcan debates.

JOSLIN

Because no official record is made of proceedings of the Legislative Assembly, members might be placed in "a helpless situation" by the Alcan transcript, he said.

He asked the Premier to urge the company to provide all members with copies of the Alcan transcript so that they could be checked.

ASKS PROTECTION

Arthur Turner (C.C.F., Vancouver East) asked that a Hansard transcript system of recording debate be initiated so that members could be protected.

He said he suspected Alcan transcripts are being made available to the Government. He stated that statements taken out of the Alcan context might be used against members in an election.

Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney argued that C.C.F. reporters had been making notes in the public galleries for years.

"I maintain there should be no special privileges," he said.

Randolph Harding (C.C.F., Kaslo-Slocan) stated that C.C.F. weekly newspaper representatives should enjoy the same status as representatives of daily newspapers.

CLAIMS MISREPRESENTATION

Arthur Ash (Cln., Saanich) declared that "on many occasions" there had been misrepresentations in the C.C.F. newspaper.

He reminded the House that Hansard would prove very costly to the Government.

He said there is a secrecy about the Alcan transcript.

"It's high time we had a Hansard," Mr. Winch said.

MOTION DEFEATED

His motion that consideration be given to institution of Hansard was defeated by a vote of 34 to 10.

W. A. C. Bennett, (Ind., South Okanagan), Tilly Rolston (Ind., Vancouver-Point Grey) and Thomas Uphill (Labor, Fernie) voted in favor of the Opposition motion.

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer stated that Opposition members must have been afraid of what they had said during Alcan debates.

CONSIDER ESTIMATES

For more than one hour and a half the House considered the estimates of the Public Works Department, but failed to pass the salary vote of popular Public Works Minister E. C. Carson.

"If you can find any highway minister in the world who has sufficient funds, I'd like to know where he is."

The public works minister took an optimistic view of the Province's highways.

He told the members he would take them over any highway and they wouldn't break a spring or get stuck.

Mr. Carson said tourist accommodation is not keeping pace with highway development in the Province.

He said there are many instances during the tourist season where visitors using British Columbia's highway system are unable to obtain accommodation.

Reseed Area On Watershed

Re-seeding of 40 acres of logged-off and burned-off area on the Goldstream watershed started yesterday.

Donald Smith, Greater Victoria Water District forester, said 12 men have started planting 30,000 fir trees in the immediate vicinity of Cabin Pond.

The area was logged and burned in 1937 and 1938 and natural growth has been retarded. It is estimated about 85 per cent of the 30,000 trees will survive.

The water board has under consideration a long-range program of reforestation of 900 acres. Before this can start, however, extensive snag removal must be carried out.

TRUMAN FIRES GENERAL MacARTHUR

Defence Budget Increases Income Tax

Refused To Obey Orders

The President said he had concluded that MacArthur "is unable to give his wholehearted support" to United States and United Nations policies.

Truman immediately designated Lieut.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway as MacArthur's successor as Supreme Commander, Allied Powers; Commander in Chief, United Nations Command; Commander in Chief, Far East; and Commanding General, U.S. Army, Far East.

Truman asserted that "military commanders must be governed" by policies and directives of the Government and "in time of crises, this consideration is particularly compelling."

PICKS VAN FLEET

The President appointed Lieut.-Gen. James A. van Fleet to succeed Ridgway in active command of the Eighth Army in Korea.

Announcement of the almost unprecedented dismissal of the general was made at a press conference at the White House at 1 a.m. E.S.T. The time was fixed to coincide as nearly as possible with the delivery to MacArthur in Tokyo of the order relieving him of his commands, "effective at once."

The President's order, telegraphed to MacArthur over the army network, was brief and pointed:

"I deeply regret that it becomes my duty as President and Commander in Chief of the United States Military Forces to replace you . . .

"You will turn over your commands, effective at once, to Lieut.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway. You are authorized to have issued such orders as are necessary to complete desired travel to such places as you select. . . ."

DIFFER OVER POLICY

The President's action came as the aftermath of a series of differences with MacArthur over policy in the Far East and raised prospects that MacArthur might return to the United States to deliver a series of blasts against the Administration, probably under auspices of his Republican supporters.

The President asserted that MacArthur's place in history "as one of our greatest commanders" is fully established.

Aware of political reverberations certain to follow in the wake of his action, the President made public a series of heretofore secret directives to show that MacArthur failed to follow administrative foreign policy.

These included one from the Joint Chiefs of Staff to MacArthur and other commanders on December 6, 1950, embracing a Presidential order that no speech, press release, or other public statement concerning foreign or military police should be released until it had been cleared by either the Department of State or the Department of Defence.

To this was attached another memo from the Joint Chiefs to MacArthur, March 20, 151, asserting that the State Department was planning an announcement shortly that "with clearing of bulk of South Korea of aggressors, United Nations now prepared to discuss conditions of settlement in Korea" and adding:

"Strong U.N. feeling persists that further diplomatic efforts towards settlement should be made before any advance with major forces north of 38th Parallel.

"Time will be required to determine diplomatic reactions and permit new negotiations that may develop."

The New York Times four days later quoted MacArthur as offering to confer in the field with the commander-in-chief of the enemy forces "in an earnest effort to find any military means" to end the war.

News of removal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from all commands in the Far East early today was coupled to the naming of Lieut. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway to replace him.

News Hits Japan Like Thunderclap

Staff officers, discussing the report of the impending action before the White House press conference, all said they did not believe the President would take such a step.

"If the President does that," said one officer, "he will lose the next election—and then some."

The news astounded the Japanese. MacArthur has been their unofficial emperor for more than five years.

It was delivered to the general by a senior aide, Col. Sid Huff.

Huff said Gen. MacArthur received the news without comment. He indicated the general had no forewarning that he was being relieved.

"Facilities Right"

Regional Planning Need Stressed by Oberlander

A new plea for a regional planning board embracing all four Greater Victoria municipalities was made her yesterday by H. Peter Oberlander, professor of planning and design at the University of British Columbia.

Professor Oberlander, addressing a luncheon meeting of members of Victoria's Town Planning Commission said Greater Victoria and the southern tip of Vancouver Island had tremendous possibilities for development, but would have to advance or fall together.

"I plead with you that regional planning (as distinct from individual town planning) will help you fulfill your great destiny," he said.

Also attending the luncheon were Mayor Percy George, city aldermen and reeves of Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

Professor Oberlander had the support of Mayor George, who invited the three outer municipalities "to at least get together" with the city and talk over the formation of a regional board as well as separate town planning commissions.

Professor Oberlander said the real function of planning was to anticipate future developments in an area and to devise schemes to meet them. It was an assurance that schools, hospitals and other facilities would come at the right time, in the right place, and in the right size, he said.

As an example of joint planning he cited the Lower Mainland Regional Planning Board, which includes six cities, 16 districts, three villages and a considerable amount of unorganized territory in the Fraser Valley.

Car Stolen— Dog Goes, Too

Here's a new twist to car thefts.

Someone stole a car belonging to Mr. and Mrs. R. C. White, Edgewater Auto Court, last night in front of the Gorge Hotel, with their 11-year-old dog inside.

"The only trouble is," said Mrs. White in worried tones, "that the dog is too good-natured."

Unhappy Prospect

By BARNEY McKINLEY

Victorians were looking up from hockey play-offs last night to face the sobering details of the 1951 "bad news" budget.

Already down to his last two play-off tickets, the man-in-the-street found himself faced with a cold-war coat reckoning.

It wasn't a happy prospect.

He was going to have to pay more for cigarettes, the poor man's solace. He would have to dig deeper to meet a personal income tax bumped a fifth from last year's.

NOT TOO MAD

With an eye on the Korean situation the little man wasn't doing too much complaining and he was thankful for the few crumbs that fell his way from the budget table.

One ray of sunshine was the unexpected retention of present liquor taxes.

The general public apparently had been prepared for a liquor price increase. Across Canada liquor vendors had been doing above-normal business as citizens stocked up.

The youngsters also might get a break. Excise tax on candy, chocolate and gum was chewed down to 15 per cent from 30.

NOT NECESSARILY

That doesn't necessarily mean the juvenile population had a free ticket to the Big Rock Candy Mountain. Experts refused to say the gum-and-candy makers would would pass on the tax saving.

But it looked hopeful.

There were other minor boons, too, such as maintenance of present income tax exemptions and a broadening of exemptions for certain expenses and medical costs.

ZERO HOUR

But mostly the fiscal pendulum was swung the other way. Zero hour had struck for the average pocketbook as the Government started tapping the reserves to keep the defence program on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Going home from the hockey game the Victoria man-in-the-street seemed most disappointed over a new tax that hit him right where he lives.

He was grumbling not a little about the 15-per-cent excise on stoves, washing machines and refrigerators.

Cigarette, Tobacco Levy Among Many Going Up

OTTAWA, April 10 (CP)—A 20-per-cent jump in personal income taxes and stiff increases in levies on cigarettes, tobacco and other commodities, were announced tonight by Finance Minister Abbott in a defence preparedness budget.

He left basic personal income-tax rates and exemptions unchanged—for the time being at least—but slapped a 20-per-cent defence tax on the amount the taxpayer already pays through his payroll deductions.

He rejected requests for a system of price controls to keep down the skyrocketing cost of living.

Nor did he favor an excess profits tax on corporation earnings.

The new personal defence tax becomes effective July 1 next, the commodity tax changes start immediately.

Corporation income taxes, along with an increase imposed in last September's "baby" budget, get another boost, retroactive to January 1.

SALES TAX UP

The general sales tax—which applies to one-third of the things the average family buys—jumps immediately to 10 per cent from 8 per cent.

Cigarettes go up three cents a package of 20 and tobacco a corresponding amount. Cigarette papers and tubes become tax-free.

The special excise tax of 15 per cent on motor cars, radios, furs, jewelry and other luxuries goes up to 25 per cent.

A 15-per-cent excise tax is being imposed on household refrigerators, washing machines and cooking stoves. It won't apply to cooking stoves using coal or wood.

NO CHANGE

Taxes on beer and liquor, increased last September, remain unchanged.

New tariff changes, effective immediately, reduce or eliminate duties on equipment used by farmers, fishermen and mining companies.

Mr. Abbott set his sights on a balanced budget and estimated he would end the fiscal year with a $30,000,000 surplus — the sixth consecutive surplus since the end of the World War. In his budget speech last year, he forecast a surplus of $15,000,000 and ended the year with a surplus of $203,458,000.

Mr. Abbott, placing this 1951-52 budget before a crowded Commons, dealt extensively with the rising cost of living, termed it a "world-wide" problem and again rejected requests for a general system of controls to keep down prices.

The Government, he said, still doesn't think it is time to take such measures.

GLOOMY HINTS

He also hinted broadly at a gloomy future for the taxpayer — with heavier levies — if the international

"Last Fling"

Taxes, Curbs on Credit Push Goods Out of Reach

By W. T. GALT
Colonist Business Editor

New excise tax increases coupled with last month's drastic tightening of instalment-buying restrictions, puts most expensive electrical goods and luxuries even further beyond the reach of average salary and wage earners, Victoria dealers said last night.

"This is probably the last fling as far as the average-salaried buyer goes," one appliance dealer said on hearing of the new tax measures.

He said the increased excise taxes would add about $60 to the price of the average refrigerator now selling for $400 and about $80 on the most popular radios.

Another dealer said the new tax on household appliances would particularly hit young couples seeking to establish homes.

"We'll have to be content with a smaller volume of sales," another dealer said.

One jeweler pointed out that the combination of a sales tax increase from 8 to 10 per cent and the excise tax increase raised the total tax on jewelry to 35 per cent, an increase of 12 per cent overall.

He said this would finally work out to an increase of at least 18 per cent in jewelry prices.

A Victoria manufacturer said that the new excise increase would result in a slow-down in sales that would soon reflect back to the manufacturer's level.

The manufacturer said tightening of installment buying laws had already been reflected in a drop in orders.

Most merchants said prices in city stores today would probably be the same as yesterday's.

"The stock already in the jewelry stores will be sold at the same prices," a jeweler said.

He said the public probably would not find price increases in most jewelry lines "for five or six months."

An appliance dealer said prices in his store would probably not go up "for a day or two."

"Citizens Getting Fed Up"

Council's Cold Shoulder Fails To Stem Tirade by Joe North

By GORDON FORBES

An otherwise dull City Council meeting yesterday was enlivened by a visit from Christopher Roland (Joe) North, well-known Victorian.

Mr. North had a complaint about a section of Johnson Street and he arrived at the council chambers to let the city fathers know about it.

"The citizens are getting fed up," he told the council. "My street is in a disgraceful condition."

"Now, just a minute, Joe, I mean Mr. North," interrupted Mayor Percy E. George. "Does the council want to hear Mr. North?"

Aldermen didn't seem too eager, but Mr. North kept right on talking. It seems he put in a petition some time ago and wasn't satisfied with council action.

WARNING FROM MAYOR

"Now, I don't want to get cross, Mr. North," said the Mayor, "but if you don't obey I'm going to have you evicted."

"I am asking you to leave," replied Mayor George. "If you put in a proper application to be heard, this council will hear you. But you must make application in plenty of time before the meeting."

JOE NORTH

Mr. North continued about his street.

"The trouble with you is you won't listen to anyone but yourself," said Mayor George who, by this time, was getting exasperated.

"Goodnight, gentlemen," said Mr. North, starting to leave. "But the citizens are getting fed up. Yep, fed up."

IMPROPERLY DRAWN

Frank Hunter, City Clerk, explained to the Mayor Mr. North's petition had been referred to the public works committee and the engineer by the council. The petition was not properly drawn up.

"You can make your representations to the public works committee," advised Mayor George.

Mr. North continued to elaborate on his road complaint.

ALL ABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

ABOARD R.M.S. QUEEN MARY, AT SOUTHAMPTON—The ticket says I have bought a steamer passage to New York. I find, however, that I am expected to walk there.

I said good-bye to my wife at the ocean terminal, with the enormous bulk of the world's second largest ship towering above me. Then I began my safari, accompanied by two bearers who trudged ahead with the cases and chattered in their own language.

It was a long trek through a jungle of corridors and decks. Even the management admits it is a jungle. According to a pamphlet which Cunard provided, "there are more than 50 kinds of rare and unusual woods used in the ship, including petula, patapsko, pomia, avodire, tiger oak, makore, bubinga, zebrano and blackbean."

My bearers stopped in clearings every now and then to make camp and ask directions from Trader Horn types who pointed weatherbeaten fingers and said: "That'away."

Several times they admitted they were lost. But after many trials and mishaps our party reached the little settlement known as Cabin D 122, and a cheer burst from our parched throats.

* * *

Somewhere in this ship, the guides tell me, are "27 public rooms comprising spacious lounges, smoking rooms, dancing salons, restaurants, cocktail bars, libraries and children's playrooms."

I doubt whether I shall find many of them. Five and one-half days is far too short a time to explore a trackless forest of tiger oak and patapsko pomia.

Before I get halfway to that cocktail bar I shall probably lie down in the shadow of a zebrano grove and die of thirst.

There is a dog hotel of 26 kennels, and each kennel has hot and cold running water; and an 80-foot exercise deck exclusively for dogs adjoins the kennels. So they tell me, anyway.

Other departments: Turkish and curative baths, complete general hospital, several movie theatres, swimming pool, gymnasium, a shopping centre comprising a tailor's shop, cigar store, book shop and ship-to-shore telephone booths; facilities for Protestant, Catholic and Jewish services. There are kosher tables in the dining rooms.

* * *

Perhaps I am mistaken. The Mary isn't a jungle after all. She's a railway yard.

According to my pamphlet, "the forward funnel of each Queen is 70 feet in height, with a cross-section of 44 feet by 30 feet, which would permit three modern locomotives, placed abreast, to pass through . . ."

And again: "It would take 40 miles of freight cars to carry the weight of the Queen Mary or Queen Elizabeth."

"The Queen Mary can carry 1,905 passengers, while the Queen Elizabeth accommodates 2,314. Over 1,200 personnel are required to man each ship . . .

"The Queens carried almost 1,500,000 personnel during their war careers, representing approximately 100 complete divisions. Each ship was equipped to carry over 15,000 troops with full equipment on each voyage.

"The height of the Queen Mary from the keel to the top of the forward funnel is 18 feet greater than that of Niagara Falls.

"The refrigeration plant of the Queen Mary totals 60,000 cubic feet, which would meet the refrigerating requirements of 15,000 average homes.

"Some of the staple foods carried on one round trip voyage . . . include 70,000 pounds of meat, 25,000 pounds of poultry, six tons of fish, 30 tons of potatoes . . . two tons of butter and over 4,000 quarts of ice cream.

"Over 500,000 pieces of china, glassware and table silver are used aboard each Queen to serve 10,000 meals a day.

"Linen supplies include 210,000 towels, 30,000 sheets . . .

* * *

This last statement I can believe very easily.

Strange Prison Custom Described by New Film

By RON BAIRD

Universal-International has come up with a movie on a rather strange prison custom used by one of the Southern States.

UNDER THE GUN stars Richard Conte as a New York gangster, convicted of a killing in Louisiana, who is sent to a prison farm for 20 years.

A state ruling, it appears, allows prison trustees to carry guns. Termed "shooters," these guards can win their freedom if they kill a convict during an escape bid. Conte eventually becomes a "shooter" after making a deal with a fellow prisoner but is himself shot to death in a chase following his parole.

I suppose that the total worth of this film is to point up an outmoded and rather barbaric custom still in force, although investigation of this practice is under way.

Unfortunately, Under the Gun suffers from a weak plot and could have been a much better picture using the same theme but with sharper use of story material. However, the photography is better than usual and the Louisiana background offers lots of good scenery.

It's all about a brassy photographer who has a great ambition to get ahead at the expense of friends and other people he runs into.

If you time this film right, you should be able to get there for the beginning, sleep right through, then be fresh enough to take in the Louisiana scenery of Under the Gun.

Election Act Amendments Expected Before Legislature by End of Week

Amendments to the Elections Act to provide for an alternative system of voting are expected to be introduced in the Legislature by Attorney-General Gordon Wismer before the end of the week.

The question was discussed in caucus Monday night and Liberals and Conservatives in the Coalition were said to have agreed to the new system of voting.

Under the system, ballots will list the names of candidates with sitting members' names at the top. The voter will mark his ballot with first, second, third and fourth, or as many choices as there are candidates.

If the candidate receiving the greatest number of first choices fails to obtain a clear majority—one vote more than half the total—the candidate receiving the fewest number of first choices is eliminated and his second choice votes are counted. This procedure would be followed until one candidate had a clear majority.

In multi-seat ridings like Victoria, where there are three members, there would be three ballots, each of a different color. Name of a sitting member would be at the top of each ballot.

Oak Bay Parks To Be Open Four Weeks

Playgrounds will be operated at Willows Beach Park and Windsor Park for four weeks daily this Summer. Lafayette Park will be open mornings to children from three to nine years.

This was announced at the initial 1951 meeting of the Oak Bay playground committee.

Supervisors and their assistants will be advertised for and it was decided that these supervisors will be asked to attend classes in woodwork and clay modeling and prepare articles for use at the playgrounds.

The committee secretary was instructed to send out invitations to all Oak Bay organizations to send two representatives to an annual meeting to be held in the Municipal Hall April 25.

Buzzy Little Bees Busy In Farm Equipment Store

There was a buzzing sound in the ears of G. E. Goodman yesterday afternoon.

And no wonder, for in his farm equipment store at 507 Cormorant street there were some 600,000 bees—all about as buzzy as a bee can be.

"You can count 'em if you want to," Mr. Goodman replied in answer to an inquiring reporter who wondered how many wings were making all the noise. There were more than 20 colonies, each in a specially-made box, and each containing between 25,000 and 30,000 occupants. And a queen bee with each colony. She was kept in a separate little compartment, along with a few "attendants" and away from the rest of the mass.

SENT FROM CALIFORNIA

The bees were sent here by express from Glenn, California, and are destined for various apiaries of lower Vancouver Island.

Built into each case (made of wooden supports and fine wire meshing) was a special dish containing a syrup made of white sugar and water. How all the bees in one case managed to get to the source of food is something known to the bees themselves. They were almost a solid blackish-brown mass.

Bee colonies, Mr. Goodman explained, were sold on a pound basis—the standard units weighing either two or three pounds. A three-pound colony costs about $6 or $7.

By today they will all have been delivered.

Esquimalt Share Set at 6.5 Per Cent

Esquimalt's share of total expenses for the Greater Victoria Civil Defence organization will be 6.5 per cent.

An earlier Colonist report gave $6,500 as the Esquimalt share. Costs in cash are not known at this time.

One of the reasons for the recent seven-mill increase in the Esquimalt tax rate was a $6,600 increase in employees' wages. A report to The Colonist erred in giving the figure as $26,600.

Ceiling Completed

PARKSVILLE, April 10—Parksville Kinsmen have completed their project of providing a ceiling for the Community Hall. Volunteer crews under Albert Doelle did the work.

Cost of the project was $1,000. Kinsmen raised the money by entertainments. It is hoped the ceiling will improve acoustics and make the building warmer.

Iran to Nationalize Oil But Not Oust West

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr.
A.P. News Analyst

Hope has risen in Anglo-American circles that, while Iran is expected to go ahead with her oil nationalization program, the extremists who would "throw the British out" will not have their way.

Premier Hussein Ala, known for his co-operative attitude toward the West, has been constrained by public sentiment to go along with the Iranian Parliament's determination that the country shall own outright its greatest resource.

He has politely but firmly rejected Britain's contention that nationalization cannot take place legally during the life of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company concessions which run until 1993.

NOT MUCH DIFFERENCE

Western diplomats now are inclined to accept the inevitability of nationalization but hope to make an agreement whereby it won't make much actual difference in control and distribution of the oil. That has become the major issue, overshadowing things like profits.

The United States has joined Britain in reminding that both countries have co-operated for Iran's welfare and promising to continue to do so.

In return, the Iranian ambassador in Washington has said that Iran wants the benefit of those who are experienced in operating the oil development, which means the British technicians.

GRAVE ALTERNATIVE

Iran's oil fields now are the world's fourth largest. They have been operated for years by British technicians. Thousands of Iranians are employed but none in key operating positions. Iran will either have to let Western technicians run things or—a grave alternative—let the Russians in.

The shadow of Russia's nearness and the threat which would be contained in her access to Iranian oil, coupled with the dangers of some extreme anti-Western sentiment among Iranians, is frightening to the West. Under the circumstances, almost all sort of deal which will retain Western rights to the oil can be expected.

South Koreans Poorly Fitted To Fight War

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP).—South Korea today could draft an army of 1,000,000 able-bodied men to fight—but it would be an untrained, poorly-equipped horde with no real fighting punch.

In a nutshell, these are the hard facts of a tragic military situation. South Korea is hardly using more than one-tenth of its available manpower.

The reasons are: Lack of trained officer and enlisted personnel, lack of skilled technicians, and a lack of weapons.

Recently Gen. Douglas MacArthur said 120,000 South Korean reserves had been demobilized because of basic political decisions beyond his control. The State Department said this action was a domestic decision by the Republic of Korea Government.

PARKING RULE

FORT ALBERNI.—Parallel parking on Kingsway between Argyle and Angus to circumvent the parking of used cars by automobile dealers in that area will be enforced in 30 days. Decision was reached Monday night by City Council.

Fires Menace Western States

PORTLAND, Ore., April 10 (INS).—Oregon and Washington suddenly found themselves with a mid-season forest fire menace on their hands today as warm weather and a strong east wind fanned blazes at several points.

The situation turned critical so rapidly that officials hastily canceled burning permits in some parts of Southwestern Washington, and Governor Douglas McKay of Oregon immediately banned all forest area burning without permit. He advanced the closed season date from May 15 to Tuesday midnight as fire officials issued warnings in several areas.

Movie Actor Admits Joining Reds in 1946

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP).—Movie star Sterling Hayden testified today that he "stupidly" joined the Communist Party in June, 1946, and quit it in disgust six months later.

Hayden named other Hollywood figures who, he said, also were party members. And he asked the House of Representatives committee on un-American activities to let all ex-Communists "get the load off their chests" by telling of their past Red activities.

"I have heard there are . . . thousands of ex-Communists who don't know what to do about it," Hayden said.

The blonde, six-foot-four actor was a decorated Marine Corps captain who went behind German lines as a U.S. secret agent during the World War.

Representative Morgan Moulder (Dem., Mo.) of the un-American activities committee told Hayden after his three hours of testimony that he "deserved the commendation of the committee and the country" for speaking out as "an intensely loyal citizen."

Hayden, former husband of actress Madeleine Carroll, was the second prominent actor in recent weeks to bare a Communist past. Larry Parks, star of "The Jolson Story," said last month he belonged to the party from 1941 to 1945.

Luxuries, Profits Hit

Puppies First Natives Of Queen Maud Land

ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION

By CAPTAIN JOHN GIAEVER
(Leader of the Joint British-Scandinavian Antarctic Expedition)

(In his first article, Dr. Giaever told how the scientists in the British-Swedish expedition to the Antarctic had prepared for the long Winter, which would be at its darkest and snowiest in June and July. Now the scientists had been built and equipped mainly in the rocky Queen Maud Land. The account continues.)

A daily routine had been arranged, with "housemasters" and weekly turns for cleaning. The younger members attended to the dogs, and when the females gave birth to the first "natives" of Queen Maud Land, the dog-lover Alan Reece took charge of the 24 puppies. Every man was put in charge of some "section." Reece was made responsible for sledging and traveling equipment, as well as for depots and an advanced base.

It got colder. Gales from the northeast with pulverized drifting snow soon wrapped the camp in a white coat. With puppies running about over the roof, we were living in a snowdrift. Only the gables of the houses broke the surface. To the north was always "the point," a barrier cape that resembled the trunk of a sea elephant and was the only feature that attracted the eye in all that whiteness.

All work was forced indoors. The sun sank in the ice. Never did I see the bright season disappear into the polar night with so red a flame. Thereafter, only the twilight in the sky north of the barrier reminded us of Summer and sun, a light that narrowed and changed from blood red to dull gold. Yet the ice waste is so white that the night is never quite dark.

LONELY CAMP

If one may imagine the impossible, a stranger coming to Maudheim one Winter day in June-July, 1950, he would have seen two dark house gables with light showing from wells dug in front of windows; white smoke rising from two lonely-looking stacks; seven radio masts and the met-mast with its swirling anemometers, and a few instrument shelters huddling in the snow. At a distance, the "rawin" (radar-wind) house, looking like a small church. Forty frost-covered and probably howling polar dogs chained in rows. And, above everything, the "Maudheim Light," a 100-watt electric lamp on a mast, the light that on Winter nights guides stumbling meteorologists and others in distress, an electric star shining like an anachronism in the ice age.

In an area large enough to cover the top of the world from the North Pole to North Cape and Alaska, our only continental neighbor is the French expedition at Adelie Land.

If the stranger had arrived here early on a dark Winter morning he would have seen crawling from a hole in the snow drift a fur-clad figure armed with a pencil and notebook, followed by a fluffy trail of 24 puppies all bent on mischief. The figure wades ahead through a seething mass of puppies. He flashes his torch into a shelter with frosted instruments. Sleepy and shivering, he thrusts asige two dozen wide-awake little devils and jots down his mystical signs. To lose a mitten means performing a grotesque dance under the Southern Cross; a suddenly furious meteorologist fights hopelessly to retrieve it from a delighted crowd of licking tongues.

ANCIENT ICE

Every day brings its duties in rapid succession. Valter Schytt (our Swedish glaciologist) has hauled up a sample of shelf-ice from a depth of many feet with the use of his infamous boring machine, and discussed whether this sample fell as snow during the Napoleonic wars or during Bismarck's regime.

Schumacher's balloon reaches a height of 15 miles and sends back radio signals that report pressure, temperature and humidity. Robin (the Australian physicist) sits in his isolated hut and follows the path of the balloon with his instruments. In a cave in the shelf-ice Knalle Ekstrom mixes aluminum pellets and caustic soda in a generator to produce hydrogen for tomorrow's balloon.

Every day Rognlad and Quar try to pick up the weather reports from Chile, the Falklands and Capetown. Wireless correspondence with Bergen and Capetown means prolonged experiments. Those who have seen the photographs sent by wireless via Capetown know nothing about what it cost to transmit those first pictures from the Antarctic continent, and nothing about the lost battles.

British Budget Boosts Income Taxes, Hits Luxuries, Business Profits Hard

LONDON, April 10 (CP).—Britain's Labor Government today proposed new taxes on individual incomes and hit hard at luxuries and business profits in a record-breaking peace-time budget designed to provide £3,000 a minute for rearmament.

Its main effects, he told the House of Commons, will be to stiffen income tax by sixpence in the pound, double the sales tax on such luxuries as automobiles, radios and television sets and slap new burdens on big business, including a retroactive increase in the levy on distributed profits.

The "free" health service, once called inviolate, will impose charges for false teeth and spectacles. The entertainment tax will be scaled upward affecting admissions to movies, horse-racing, greyhound and motor-cycle speedways. The price of gasoline will be increased to three shillings, sixpence (52 cents) through a duty of 4½ pence a gallon.

PENSIONS RAISED

But there will be increased allowances for old-age pensioners, income-tax relief for those with heavy family responsibilities and some tax concessions on certain household necessities, ranging from dusters and wash towels to shoelaces.

Beer and tobacco, already yielding heavy revenue, remain unchanged.

In his two-hour speech in the Commons, Mr. Gaitskell said the national budget in 1951-52 will be $4,197,000,000 ($12,381,150,000)—biggest in Britain's peacetime history.

Last year, revenues were £3,978,000,000 and expenditures £3,258,000,000, leaving a surplus of £700,000,000.

He had to span a gap of £150,000,000 in the fiscal year which began April 1.

ONE-THIRD FOR ARMS

More than a third of the new budget, £1,490,000,000, is for rearmament.

"It is a sound budget. I claim also that it is a fair budget," he said. "The proposed increases in taxation are admittedly severe but not crippling."

"If by these measures we can save peace . . . If we can protect ourselves from the nightmare of the police state, there is not one of us here who would not cheerfully accept the burden and far more too."

Conservative Leader Winston Churchill paid tribute to the young chancellor. He called the budget statement lucid and comprehensive.

"I have listened to many budgets in this House, and even contributed five myself," the Opposition leader said, "and I feel that the Right Honorable Gentleman has placed himself in a good position to conduct the long and severe debates we shall, no doubt, have on many aspects of the policy."

"DOWNHILL"

Mr. Churchill said, however, that Britain had gone downhill in almost every way under post-war Socialist rule.

The "dark shadow" of the aftermath of devaluation of the pound still hung over Britain, he said.

Gaitskell said that "in the circumstances in which we have been placed this year it was impossible for the budget to be both honest and popular." He added: "I know this budget will not be popular, but I claim that it is honest."

He gave a bit of a break to old people by raising their pensions, and cushioned the rise in income tax by increasing the tax-free allowance for married persons and children.

Those with large families may even find their income tax cut slightly, but they share along with everyone the steep rise in hidden taxation.

LOAN INTEREST

Mr. Gaitskell, who occasionally sipped a mixture of orange juice said to have been spiked with rum, said the outlay for Consolidated Fund Services included £40,000,000 ($118,000,000), representing the first payment of interest next December on the post-war loans from Canada and the United States.

There was an obligation on Britain to make these payments, he said, although "we cannot possibly say at the moment whether circumstances will justify a request for a waiver at a later date."

Besides upping the income tax, he increased from 33⅓ per cent to 66⅔ per cent the tax on automobiles, radio and television sets, and gas and electrically-operated domestic appliances. Some household necessities, in which he included kitchen utensils, were exempted.

LOAD ON BUSINESS

The tax on distributed profits was raised from 30 to 50 per cent, retroactive to January 1. This brought a moan from business men, who said it would add to their difficulties of attracting investors.

Women over 65 and men over 70 will have their pensions raised from 26 shillings a week to 30 shillings if single, from 42 shillings to 50 if married.

The decision to charge for spectacles and false teeth was a tough blow for the folk who like something for nothing, but they can still get medical attention without being billed.

Chile has 5,525 miles of railway track, the first railway there having opened in 1851.

News Oddities

CLEVELAND, April 10 (AP).—The Cleveland Plain Dealer recently announced the birth of a son to Mrs. George Demeas—five years late.

The birth record got mixed up with the newly-listed arrivals at City Hospital after Mrs. Demeas applied for a birth certificate for her son, now five.

"I thought I'd better tell you," said the mother to The Plain Dealer. "My friends have been looking at me sort of funny and asking about the new baby."

ATLANTA, Ga., April 10 (AP).—Lucille, 3, and her sister, Alix Ann Boyd, 4, decided to play "doctor" last night.

"Open wide," said Lucille to Alix and popped in a pill. Then Alix said "Now you open wide."

Forty-three pills and an hour later they were taken to hospital. Today they were reported to be fully recovered.

They picked up the pill technique from a doctor who treated them for flu last week.

CLIFTON, N.J., April 10 (AP).—A man appeared in magistrate's court here today on a charge of selling unlabelled horsemeat which the judge, John Celenatano may have eaten himself.

"I've had steak there and I thought it was pretty good," the judge said.

But the defendant was fined $212 anyway.

DALLAS, Tex., April 10 (AP).—Postman E. A. Robinson reported that he was bitten Monday—and he produced teeth marks on the back of his legs as proof.

Postmen are always being bitten by dogs.

"No—it wasn't a dog," he said. "It was a small boy, about four years old."

PORTLAND, Ore., April 10 (AP).—Mountaineers went up snow-covered Mount Hood Monday and rescued a St. Bernard—again.

Missing four days, the dog was found on a rocky ledge at the 8,500-foot level—hungry, tired and afraid to climb down.

Some years back they had to rescue two of the St. Bernards, who wandered onto a lofty perch and wouldn't come down.

An Inflated Budget to Lead Off the New Year

THE anomaly of governments inflating their budgets to curb inflation being the strange new economic cult, Finance Minister Abbott's $3,700,000,000 bill of costs for 1951-52 will probably occasion small public surprise. It will be for Parliament to trace what is being done with the $2,200,000,000 over and above the special defence appropriations of $1,500,000,000. It will be noted that the personal income tax, boosted by 20 per cent, is returning to about its wartime level; that corporation profits cannot fall below 5 per cent retroactively to January 1 last; and that luxury and general sales taxes are being given a fresh lease of life. The exemptions per contra are hardly worth mentioning; and beyond a few exploration ventures and imported mines-fish-farm equipment they will hardly show.

The sharp increase in the sales tax by 20 per cent can have little other effect than to send the general price structure off on another upward climb. So, too, will the stringent and retroactive assessment against corporations, both on their profits and also on the disallowance of depreciation on non-essential capital assets. The absurd tax on cigarette papers is to be lifted at long last, but a tax several times as large will now go on tobaccos in other forms. Liquor and beer, it is noted, escape fresh imposts. Taxing new automobiles 25 per cent, and refrigerators, washing machines and wired or piped stoves 15 per cent, in conjunction with the 10 per cent sales tax, will certainly not lower the price of these goods and personal services to the public. However, in the end, Hon. Douglas Abbott has only to put his hand out and Parliament will give him the money. It will be another matter to see that in the outlay of these colossal sums the taxpayers get token value for their money.

A Promise of Concrete Action at Last

IT is gratifying that Victoria should be the first city in Canada to complete an area survey for civil defence purposes, and those concerned in its compilation are to be commended. Not, perhaps, that this says a great deal for other Canadian communities. One is forced to the conclusion that if the tempo of other defensive preparations is not faster than that associated with A.R.P. then Canada is none too well off.

Even in our own city, which apparently leads the Dominion so far, there is an air of leisurely approach to civil defence scarcely consistent with the stern purpose which Western statesmen tell us should back our actions in these critical times. Nine months have passed since a provincial committee was named to initiate protective measures in his area, and so far as the general public is concerned they are no wiser now than then. To some degree at least Victoria might well have begun where it left off five years ago, and a start made on reviving the A.R.P. units formerly in existence. No matter what changes the years have brought, civil defence depends on people organized to carry out the blueprints.

Blueprints take time to draft, naturally, and civil defence is not to be fully arranged overnight. Neither, however, are the units that will give it form and fact, and preliminary steps along this line could have paralleled the survey stages. One trouble is that provincial and municipal officials are occupied with other duties and so civil defence perforce becomes a sideline with them. In the light of grave world events this should not be good enough for any alert community.

The recently-appointed civil defence co-ordinator for Greater Victoria, who is not responsible for the slow-motion effort to date, has now announced a date for the opening of local headquarters. There is thus the promise of concrete action to enlist the community in serious organized preparation for its own protection. It will not be before time.

Federal Government Hoist With Own Petard

AGRICULTURE Minister Gardiner's Prairie chickens are coming home to roost. The farmers' unions of the wheat belt, dissatisfied with the Federal Government's promised gift of $65,000,000 from the Canadian treasury to make them feel better about the Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement negotiated by Mr. Gardiner, are at the Cabinet's door demanding much more under threat of a farm strike, whatever that might mean.

Mr. Gardiner thus has gambled and lost twice. First, he gambled on the guaranteed price provided under the agreement against the wheat farmers' chances on the world market, and lost them money. Then he—and the Government and Parliament—gambled on the chances of keeping sweet with the Prairie section of the electorate by means of a $65,000,000 bonus extracted from the public purse; and lost again. The farmers were not to be so easily solaced.

This whole wheat affair is one of the ugliest political episodes in Canadian history. The farmers have no color of right to a single penny from the public. If the agreement returned them less than they would otherwise have received, that was Mr. Gardiner's bad gamble and their hard luck. The $65,000,000 bonus which the Government wangled through the House is nothing better than a political payoff in tax money to make good Liberal promises which were not backed by parliamentary authority. There is on record Prime Minister St. Laurent's amazing excuse to the House that the farmers had "expected" more and that the Cabinet felt their expectations should not be disappointed.

Well, the wheat belt expected something better than $65,000,000, and apparently is ready to take extreme measures to secure recompense. If this attitude embarrasses Mr. Gardiner, the Cabinet and the Liberals from the Prairie ridings, it serves them right. They have already incensed the rest of Canada against the $65,000,000 handout, and now its recipients are turning against them. There is their just reward for making rash promises and then calling on the treasury to make them good.

CONSTRUCTION COSTS

Sir,—On March 17 The Financial Post stated that: "In construction, since 1939, hourly rates have gone up 40% more than the official cost of living index."

If this is a correct statement it is surely serious. Before discussing the effects of this condition it would be well to know whether the construction industry agrees with The Financial Post's statement.

HOSPITAL INSURANCE

Sir,—"A $35 Head Tax on Babies Born in B.C. Hospitals." "Children Left to suffer Until $35.00 Is paid for Hospitalization." These make good headlines for B.C. newspapers, or don't they? Quite an achievement for our Finance Minister and every M.L.A. who voted for the co-insurance clause asking payment for the first ten days of hospitalization, thus leaving the way clear for hospital administrators to wreck the whole Hospital Insurance scheme.

British Columbia mothers have now to pay $35.00 before their babies can be born in the safety of a hospital bed with skilled care in attendance unless she pleads poverty, even although she has already paid all Hospital Insurance premiums.

An item in the newspaper gives us the figure of 25 babies being born in the three days preceding the dead-line for free admission to one hospital. Normally there would have been five in that time. Nature exacts a penalty every time she is "rushed," so it is easy to figure that forty lives were in jeopardy to achieve the above result with probably chronic invalidism in many cases as a result.

The more this co-insurance is studied the more inhuman its implications appear.

Mothers and expectant mothers struggling with the ever-rising cost of living, who had paid all premiums under the Hospital Insurance Act, felt a certain amount of security and peace of mind knowing that a hospital bed and skilled care were available at short notice in maternity cases and children's mishaps and ailments such as ear, tonsil and chest troubles, without regard to how much was in the family purse at that particular moment.

The above cases almost all fall within the ten-day class. All of a sudden this security was shattered. So, driven by necessity, mothers have now to fall back into the old way of having their babies at home, often without any skilled care. Older children will be treated at home by mothers' trying to clear up their ailments until $35.00 can be earned or borrowed. By that time these ailments may have reached the chronic or fatal stage. Results—a long stay in hospital or undertaker's bill . . .

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

FOR a while I thought that David Niven's age and his peroxide blond hair might spoil the illusion—Bonnie Prince Charlie was only 24 during the "Forty-Five" and I have always understood his hair to be dark red in color, but only for a while. The film eventually took hold of me, as I daresay it will most expatriates concerned, because of the subject matter. And what a subject!—A gallant young man on a forlorn and incredible adventure. The wonder is this film was not made years ago.

"The Young Pretender" they call him, yet in truth he never pretended and indeed was quite blunt about his intentions. That they came to naught is one of the tantalizing "ifs" of history, since of course history would have been much different had the result of Culloden been reversed. No event of importance ever takes place without the consequence being felt by succeeding generations, even unto this day.

Not that Culloden looms large in the screen's "Bonnie Prince Charlie"; it scarcely intrudes at all, which is passing strange since the climax of a play is surely as arresting as its beginning. A stranger to Charles Stuart would never guess that this forty-minute battle changed a nation. One should not expect too much from a motion picture, however, and this one does not offend the facts seriously.

All of the Bonnie Prince's story could not be told anyway if a film audience were ever to get home to bed, and this outline touches the highlights and puts them in fair perspective. Even those who never heard of Charles Edward, and perhaps couldn't care less, are sure to enjoy it. There is Flora Macdonald, for instance, recreated by a lady both handsome and apt even if her accent slips occasionally. There are historians, overfond of cold water, who will tell you there never was hint of love between the Prince and the girl who saved him, but you need not believe them. It is an established fact that Flora took one of the sheets off the bed in which Charles slept at Kingsburgh and forty-four years later it was her shroud.

As you know if you have seen the film, Miss Leighton was content with a lock of Charlie's hair, which I believe is now to be seen in Dunvegan Castle, the 1,000-year-old home of the MacLeod chief who sided with Cumberland but who at the end of the film at least was obviously changing his sympathies. As, of course, well he might. In truth if all the chieftains who toasted Charlie in exile had rallied their clans to his service he might have gone further than Derby, the Lord Murray's displeasure notwithstanding. It was the pipes of the Campbells in Cumberland's rear, for instance, that enraged the Macintoshes at Culloden and contributed to the valorous but ill-judged charge on the Royalist guns.

I rather think the producer missed a bet by not showing us the Lady Macintosh. This was the lady whose husband, the chief of the clan, didn't espouse the young chevalier's cause but continued to command a unit of Cumberland's army, a circumstance that in no way daunted her ladyship. She, off her own bat, raised the clan for Charlie to provide what I'm sure must have been an intriguing situation.

I would have liked to have seen more of the gentle Lochiel, without whom the great venture would have ended before it started, but I suppose that would have pushed Lord George Murray into the background and robbed the film of this dynamic soldier's wayward leadership. Charlie didn't leave without saying good-bye to the chiefs he enlisted in one of the the film's most dramatic moments, however, and his farewell to them would have been worthwhile.

The capture of Edinburgh, perhaps, might have been worth more than a perfunctory glimpse of Mr. Niven riding triumphantly up the Royal Mile, or was it down? There was in reality a great scurrying about among the baillies before Charles—Edward rode that way, and it must be reckoned unique that a motion picture could include Auld Reekie and leave out its famous castle. But then as I said before even a film about such a Bonnie Prince must come to an end, and that it would not do if every commentator like this writer had his way.

"Bonnie Prince Charlie" isn't a masterpiece as films go, but it is colorful and full of interest. The subject alone is enough to fill the hearts of all Victoria Scots, which is the best test of a film at any time; and the technicolor should do much to change the views of those who think Highland glens are always as dour and bleak as black-and-white calendars make them out to be.

One scene alone is bound to stick in the memory of all who see this picture, the gathering of the clans when the young chevalier's standard is unfurled at Glenfinnan. He will be a queer stoic who looks on unmoved as the Highlanders come into view over the crest of a hill and march proudly down to the waiting Charles. For, although they knew it not, it was their swansong.

Murder in Peron's Darkest Argentina

(From The New Yorker Magazine)

THE murder of a newspaper is a lot like the murder of a person; it is apt to lead to further bloodshed in an attempt to destroy the evidence. Mr. Peron strangled La Prensa and was seen with the sashcord in his hand. All over the world, newspapers and magazines just happened to catch him in the act. So he is now taking the next step: he is knocking the witnesses over the head, in order to get them out of the way. Argentine customs authorities were instructed last week to seize certain foreign newspapers and periodicals, so the dictator might be spared the embarrassment of having the Argentine public read about his crime. Thus does murder breed murder.

The closing of La Prensa is reminiscent of other slayings, in the not distant past, when other dictators, now dead, were busy silencing the free press. We had to fight a war over it, and that, too is memorable.

Even the terminology has a familiar sound—the use of the word "light" for the word "darkness." Dictators always create a language of their own. Mr. Peron, appearing recently at a conference of 21 American republics, called for a program to make the Western Hemisphere "a beacon of peace in a world of darkness." We prefer Webster's Dictionary in these crises; pending restoration of La Prensa, we shall refer to Mr. Peron's country as Darkest Argentina, and we would like to see it thus named whenever it is mentioned in the American press (now banned by him), as a continuing protest against the abominable deeds.

* * *

The Prensa affair stirs again the recurrent question: How can the United Nations shake off its impotency and show strength? The free world is rocked by the suppression of an independent newspaper and does not readily accept the explanation that it is a "domestic" matter. There is nothing domestic about the death of a newspaper. To kill off a newspaper is aggression. It is as menacing as to move an army across a border. If the Subcommission on Freedom of Information is dormant, then let the new Peace Observation Commission wake up and take La Prensa as its first assignment. What better observatory is there, if one is looking for evil stars, than a padlocked newspaper whose editor is being sought for arrest because he wrote a statement expressing his side of the case?

* * *

The U.N. has on its books a declaration of human rights, but it has no machinery for regulating human conduct. It cannot demand that member nations perform the duties that underlie these rights, it cannot insist that member nations accept the responsibilities that would make the rights a reality. In short, it can watch La Prensa die and it can take notes, but it cannot bring the killer to account.

The U.N., furthermore, does not impose any moral conditions of membership. The nations that were admitted in 1945, of which Darkest Argentina was one, were accepted by reason of their having been on the winning side in a world war—as silly a way of organizing a club as any we ever heard of. Right now, the U.N. weighs the advantage of having Russia at its conference table against the alternative advantage of having a set of basic principles on which members are agreed. It can't have both. But it won't have strength until it has principles—the first principle being a free press.

* * *

The U.N. has behind it a strong world sentiment that seeks action in behalf of free principles. The time will come, soon or late, when this sentiment will dominate all other emotions and when the U.N. will decide to overhaul its charter and create a constitutional system of rights and duties, as a substitute for a mere working arrangement with Russia and her buddies.

Then, if a nation wants to enjoy the pleasures and advantages of membership, it will have to fulfill the qualifications for membership. And the first of these shall be a free press, and no fooling.

In the Public Interest

(From The Financial Post)

THIS publication has been overwhelmed with praise for an article printed on the financial affairs of the now defunct United Emergency Fund for Britain.

That article showed that out of $593,000 collected from the public some $185,000 went for salaries, some $188,000 for advertising and publicity and other large administrative expenses. Some $880 went to buy food for Britain which the public understood to be the main purpose of the fund.

This publication much prefers when it has pleasant things to report about people or organizations. But the scores of comments we have had especially from people connected with charitable causes abundantly confirm our judgment that telling the sad story of the UEFB is in the public interest, that it will serve the best interests of all charities which appeal for public funds and for those public-spirited people who support good causes with their time, effort and prestige.

Revealing the facts in such a case merely builds public confidence in the efficiency and economy with which other funds are operated.

Furthermore, it is now virtually certain that these revelations will lead to the creation of some machinery for reviewing the operations of charitable appeals and providing the public with some way of knowing where it can spend its charity dollars to good advantage.

The Province of Ontario has already acted as a result of The Post report. An amendment to the Charities Accounting Act provides that a citizen may put his complaint to a judge regarding the manner in which charitable funds are being collected or distributed. The judge may then order an investigation by the public trustee.

In recent years, the number of new appeals for public support has been increasing rapidly. All or most of the appeals now being made can doubtless make a good claim because there is much misery.

We do not believe the Government should take unto itself the powers to decide what charities shall solicit public funds or for what causes. But the Government and the public have a very real concern in the charity business and in the proliferation of appeals where donors claim the right to income tax exemption.

Some means whereby the public can be made wiser about charitable endeavors is obviously desirable. So is anything which will encourage people who lend their names to good causes to watch their operations carefully.

From the reaction to recent Post articles on this subject, it is abundantly clear that much has already been achieved, that more progress is on the way.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

ON recently being equipped, for the first time, with a fine set of false teeth, it was with dismay that I discovered my whistle was gone. It seems the dental profession can make a beautiful match for the teeth they deprive you of. But they cannot guarantee your whistle. There is science and technology for you. They can create appearances. But the spirit escapes them.

With my whistle, I could call a whip-poor-will to my very feet. Out of the Spring night, a whip-poor-will would come a quarter mile or more to perch, in some astonishment, on the veranda railing, to join me in a robust duet. Indians regarded me as one who almost spoke their own language, whenever I regaled them with this trick. Now I am reduced to one language again.

Chickadees, crested fly-catchers, Baltimore orioles, the hermit thrush, meadow lark, and two kinds of hawk were on speaking terms with me when I had my old familiar teeth, every crack and crevice of which I knew with a curious intimacy—an intimacy that I do not enjoy with my hands or any other part of my anatomy. Teeth are intensely personal.

Not only birds but dogs are now all but lost to me. With a particular unmusical but intensely high-pitched whistle that was almost a hiss, I could halt a dog in his tracks at a hundred yards. Now I have to bellow: and bellowing is not good for a man of false teeth age. For taxi-cabs, there is nothing left for me now but to wave and gesticulate. Remembering the late Mr. Chamberlain's teeth, I understand why he carried an umbrella. It was for hailing cabs.

Some young aspiring dentist might build for himself a select but lucrative practice by inventing a kind of false teeth with little holes in them for enabling whistling men to emit various beautiful blasts.

All Taxpayers to Share Percentage Increase

Income Levy Jumps July 1

OTTAWA, April 10 (CP).—No Canadian paying income tax escaped—and no specific group was singled out by—Finance Minister Douglas Abbott's budget brought down tonight.

Individuals and corporations alike will pay more from July 1 on.

For individuals, the increase will be 20 per cent of the amount already being paid as income tax, with no changes in exemptions or basic rates. There are, however, some new deductions allowance.

CORPORATION TAXES

Resolved that it is expedient to introduce a measure to amend the Income Tax Act and to provide, among other things:

1. That, in respect of income earned after the commencement of the 1951 calendar year, a corporation shall pay a defence surtax for the year equal to 20 per cent of that portion of its ordinary income tax for the year that is computed at the 38 per cent rate, or the 33 per cent rate if applicable (before allowance is made for tax credits), subject to a right to a refund of such tax to the extent that it would reduce the corporation's taxable income after payment of ordinary income tax to an amount less than 5 per cent of its capital employed.

2. That an individual shall pay a defence surtax equal to

(A) For the 1951 taxation year, 10 per cent and

(B) For each subsequent taxation year, 20 per cent of his ordinary income tax (including investment surtax) for the year before allowance is made for tax credits.

NEW DEDUCTIONS

3. That, for the purpose of computing income from an office or employment for the 1951 or a subsequent taxation year, there may be deducted certain amounts paid in respect of:

(A) Traveling expenses that the officer or employee was required by the contract of employment to incur,

(B) Professional membership dues where the officer or employee was required by the contract of employment to maintain his professional status,

(C) Office rent or salary to an assistant or substitute required by the contract of employment to be paid by the officer or employee,

(D) Supplies consumed directly in the course of the employment for which the officer or employee was required by the contract of employment to pay, or

(E) Union dues.

ARMED SERVICES

4. That the Governor in Council be authorized to make regulations under which the income tax of members of the armed forces on their service income will be paid in full in respect of the pay and allowances of each pay period by a deduction therefrom in accordance with a special table subject to the right of any member to file a return on an annual basis.

5. That the right to elect to pay the 15 per cent tax on its undistributed income now enjoyed by a private company,

(A) Be extended to all other corporations, and

(B) Be withdrawn, effective April 10, 1951, from a corporation that is controlled by another corporation except in respect of its undistributed income on hand at the end of the 1949 taxation year.

6. That for the 1951 and subsequent taxation years the provision under which the 15 per cent tax rate on the first $10,000 of income of a corporation applies to only one of several related corporations be amended so as not to include in the class of related corporations those controlled by persons not dealing at arms length unless such persons own shares in the capital stock of both corporations.

MEDICINES DEDUCTIBLE

7. That for the 1951 and subsequent taxation years, payments made for insulin, cortisone, adrenocorticotrophin (ACTH), liver extract injectible for pernicious anaemia and vitamin B12 for pernicious anaemia purchased under a physician's prescription may be included in the medical expenses for which a deduction from income may be made for the purpose of computing taxable income.

8. That special deductions from income to taxpayers whose principal business is the production, refining or marketing of petroleum or petroleum products or the exploring or drilling for oil or natural gas or mining or exploring for minerals, be allowed for expenses incurred in the 1954 operations on the same basis as for expenses incurred in the operations in the years 1951 to 1953.

9. That special deductions from income and taxes to taxpayers whose principal business is production, refining or marketing of petroleum or drilling for petroleum be allowed for expenses incurred in respect of deep-test oil wells in 1952 operations on the same basis as for similar expenses in 1950 and 1951 operations.

10. That the exemption of the income from a metalliferous or industrial mineral mine for the first three years of production now applicable to mines that came into production during the years 1946 to 1952 be extended to mines coming into production in the years 1953 and 1954.

Cautious Sigh of Relief Heaved by Businessmen

But the budget had bitter pills for some of them to swallow.

A group of chartered accountants who met in Victoria last night to discuss the budget news as it came off the teletype wires said "it was far better than we expected."

They listed as "very good news" the facts that there will be no excess profits tax this year and that small corporations face no increase on the first $10,000 profit.

But they said that delaying the depreciation write-off for tax purposes by four years will have an adverse effect on small businesses that wish to expand with limited capital.

Until now most small businessmen have hoped to retain enough cash through depreciation write-offs to pay their income taxes, the chartered accountants said.

Before last night's budget, the businessmen could write off 20 per cent of the cost of any new machinery or equipment in the year of its purchase.

The increase in corporation taxes on profits in excess of $10,000, up 20 per cent from 36 per cent to 45.6 per cent, coupled with the four-year deferment on depreciation write-offs "will make it very difficult for new ventures to be launched at this time," the chartered accountants said.

They said that when 45 per cent of profits are taken in taxes and when no write-off on capital investment is allowed, businessmen will find that launching new ventures is virtually impossible.

But they added that these measures were still preferable to the excess profits tax.

Cigarettes, Tobacco Raised by New Budget

situation doesn't improve. But, if it does, the new taxes may be dropped.

He said frankly that he wants this budget to be regarded as an "interim policy" for this year. If it becomes clear that "we are in for a long pull at these high levels of expenditure some major changes in the existing tax structure may have to be devised."

At another point, he made this ominous observation:

"I do not say that we have reached the practical limits of the income tax."

MAIN FEATURES

Here are the main budget features:

1. The 20-per-cent defence tax on personal incomes goes into effect July 1 and means that payroll deductions will go up by one-fifth after that date. Revenue yield: $85,000,000 for the remainder of this year and $158,000,000 in a full year.

2. Union and professional membership dues and travelling and certain other expenses incurred while earning wages and salaries now may be deducted from taxable income. Insulin, Cortisone, Acth and certain drugs for treatment of pernicious anaemia now may be included as deductible medical expenses.

3. Along with the three-cent increase in the tax on a pack of 20 cigarettes, the tobacco tax is increased to $1.15 a pound from 67 cents. Revenue yield: An additional $8,000,000 this year and $9,000,000 for a full year.

4. The special excise tax—now increased to 25 per cent from 15 per cent—applies to a long list of items, including new motor cars, radios, household electrical appliances, motorcycles, sporting goods, cigarette lighters, cosmetics, purses, luggage, fountain pens, watches and cameras. The tax—at the old 15 per cent—also goes on refrigerators, washing machines and stoves.

Revenue yield: An extra $44,000,000 this year and $54,000,000 in a full year.

"TOO SEVERE"

5. The 30-per-cent tax imposed last September on candy, chocolates and chewing gum is being reduced to 15 per cent because it has been found to be "too severe."

6. The boost in the general sales tax to 10 per cent from 8 per cent will yield additional revenue of $105,000,000 this year and $125,000,000 in a full year. It is being repealed on the drugs Cortisone and Acth. Fuels, building materials and 95 per cent of all foods are exempt from the sales tax.

7. By the use of another defence levy, the tax on corporation profits of more than $10,000 is being boosted to 45.6 per cent from 38 per cent, retroactive to January 1 last. Revenue yield: $116,000,000 this year and $175,000,000 in a full year. The corporation tax on profits under $10,000 remains unchanged at 15 per cent. The tax boost will not be allowed to reduce company profits to less than 5 per cent of capital.

8. Tax deductions for exploration expenses for oil, mining and natural gas companies are being extended for another year, while the three-year tax exemption for new mines is being extended to mines starting production in 1953 and 1954.

9. To curb the competitive scramble for scarce building materials and equipment, depreciation write-off for tax purposes is being withheld for four years on new non-essential construction or capital asset acquisitions.

10. Revenues for 1951-52 are estimated at $3,730,000,000 against $3,105,-300,000 in 1950-51, while expenditures are estimated at $3,700,800,000 against $2,901,844,000.

Atlantic Pact Concessions

Tariff Changes to Aid Industry

reductions and concessions to help Canada's primary industries, cut production costs and to make life easier for immigrants tonight were announced by Finance Minister D. C. Abbott.

At the same time, his budget speech announced concessions allowing North Atlantic Treaty countries to bring their arms and equipment into Canada duty-free. The customs tariff changes, not considered extensive, become effective immediately.

Canada's usual policy is to cut tariffs wherever possible. But one significant turnabout was a step to build a small tariff barrier against one particular commodity.

The Government instituted a 15-per-cent customs tariff against certain kinds of undecorated plastics, giving the Canadian plastic industry against foreign imports.

CONCESSION DEALS

Mr. Abbott also said that Canada had concluded new tariff concession agreements with 16 countries, including the United States. The concessions will be announced May 9.

Under tariff-reducing changes, such farm equipment as grain and ration systems for dome types of dairy equipment will be allowed into Canada free of duty.

The fishing industry, said Mr. Abbott, will benefit by the free entry of Diesel engines for fishing boats. The term "nets and lines" will be widened to include nets and lines of any material also allowed into Canada free of duty.

Many in City Find Benefit In Budget

One section of the budget should be good news to Victorians who live on dividends declared on shares of large Canadian companies, city chartered accountants said last night.

It is the section of the budget that gives public companies the right to elect to pay a 15 per cent tax on undisturbed dividends.

This right was formerly only granted to private companies.

The change means that large companies, if they elect to pay the 15 per cent tax, will be able to pay their dividends by shares of stock instead of by cash.

If the companies send out dividends in the form of extra stock, shareholders will not be taxed on the shares as they are now on dividends paid in cash, city accountants said.

Thus, city shareholders might receive tax-free shares which they can sell for tax-free income, accountants say.

Effective Dates Announced For Budget Tax Changes

Defence surcharge of 20 per cent on personal income taxes—July 1, 1951.

Corporation income-tax boosted to 45.6 per cent from 38 per cent on profits of more than $10,000—retroactive to January 1, 1951.

Sales tax increased to 10 per cent from eight per cent—immediately.

Tax on package of 20 cigarettes increased to 23 cents from 20 cents—immediately.

Tobacco tax increased to $1.15 a pound from 67 cents a pound—immediately.

Repeal of tax on cigarette papers and tubes—immediately.

Reduction to 15 per cent from 30 per cent of tax on candy, chocolate and chewing gum—immediately.

Special excise tax of 15 per cent now extended to include stoves, washing machines and refrigerators—immediately.

Tariff changes, eliminating or reducing duties on equipment used by farmers, fishermen and mining companies—immediately.

Turns Down Controls —'Not Time'

OTTAWA, April 10 (CP).—Finance Minister Abbott, [illegible] down in the Commons budget speech tonight on suggestions that the Government immediately reimpose price controls.

He dealt extensively with the high cost of living, termed it a world-wide problem not peculiar alone to Canada and reiterated the Government's view that this is not the time to embark on a program of wide controls.

He said:

"If we reach a point where we believe a much wider range of direct controls would be in the national interest we shall use them, but we are not prepared to embark upon a premature program which under present conditions would, in our judgment, create more confusion than stability."

STEPS TAKEN

Mr. Abbott reviewed the steps the Government already had taken to fight inflation—curtailing expenditures, following a pay-as-you-go fiscal policy, and curbing the expansion of credit. It would continue to develop and apply those policies. It asked individuals, business and municipal and provincial Governments to reduce their expenditures.

He said price increases in Canada during the last year have been "more moderate" than in other comparable countries.

While 1950 wholesale prices went up 15 per cent in Canada, they advanced 19 per cent in the United States, 22 per cent in Australia, 23 per cent in the United Kingdom, and 20 to 25 per cent in most of the Western European countries.

Mr. Abbott promised that the tighter credit policies, striking at the root causes of inflation and coupled with similar action in the United States, will have "a growing importance in holding prices down."

Dealers Say Tax Increase Will Cut Sales of New Cars

Increased excise taxes on cars will slow down sales on new cars and put used cars in the limelight, Victoria dealers said last night.

Dealers said the increase announced in Ottawa will boost prices of new cars by at least $200.

They said the tax would not apply on used cars.

Dealers said they had anticipated the increase, but most were not sure how the tax would affect cars already in stock.

NO AGREEMENT

One dealer thought the new tax would affect new cars now in Victoria. Another thought that the increase would not apply until new cars arrived her from the manufacturers.

Dealers said the sharp increase in new car prices would turn prospective buyers to better-class used cars, thus sending the used car price up.

One dealer said this was a reverse of the situation a few weeks ago when tighter credit restrictions were announced.

SALES SLUMP

Sales of higher-priced used cars slumped following imposition of credit controls. Dealers said this was because most people with cars to trade in wanted new cars. The main used car market was to persons buying their first car.

Buyers with no car to trade in as the 50 per cent down payment were faced with a large cash requirement in buying good used cars.

Most were unable to make the cash payment and used car sales slumped.

Now dealers feel some prospective new car buyers will be trading in their cars for new-model used cars where the taxes do not apply.

Greater Victoria Scouts Aid Clean-Up Campaign

The Boy Scouts — those international good fellows—were preparing this week to do Victoria a civic good turn in connection with the celebration of annual "Paint Up, Clean Up" week.

The annual spit-and-polish program sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce is due to get a big assist from the Scouts of Greater Victoria, the program committee announced last night.

Program will run from April 14 to 21, inclusive.

Under field commissioner Freeman King the Scouts will feature a week-long campaign by scrubbing and painting around their own homes to set a clean-up example to other households.

Special events will include a salvage paper drive on April 21 in which Esquimalt, St. John's and Gorge Vale Scout Groups will take part.

Fletchers Offering Modern City Store

With an extensive program of alteration, modernization and redecoration completed, Fletcher Bros. (Victoria) Limited, offer Victoria the facilities of a fully up-to-date and modern four-floor store. Increased business and need for [illegible] expansion. Floor space has been doubled and modern windows installed.

A prominent feature is the ticket sales box office. Fletchers acts as headquarters for Victoria Symphony, Musical Festival, Famous Artists and the Little Theatre, offering the public a convenient service in this regard. Beyond are music and record departments with tiers of records filed to form one of the greatest record libraries in the West. The nine listening booths, comfortable and modern, are all expertly soundproofed and air-conditioned, with the latest amplifiers and speakers. Downstairs is the Kiddies' Corner, where youngsters can find the special records they delight in.

The upper floors hold the musical instrument department, radio salon, piano room, and with administrative offices. On the lower main floor the service department reigns.

Service Follows All Sales At Fletchers

All through the history of Fletchers there has been one invariable policy, "service to follow the sale." This is exemplified in the modernization and expansion of Fletcher's service department, on the lower main floor.

The entire floor is devoted to this department with a radio and electrical service section under the direction of George Murdoch with four qualified technicians employed. Three craftsmen are at work in the piano reconditioning, polishing and tuning shops.

GEORGE MURDOCH

On the electrical side, Ken Holman and R. Langley are specialists in the adjustment and repair of radios and electric appliances, while R. S. Kitching works on television installation and adjustments. Factory-trained, he brings special knowledge to his work, using the meter-test of the location before a major TV installation is made. With this special equipment local interference is located and Fletchers field-proven antenna system, of the correct type for the area, is installed.

Touch and Tone

To the sensitive ear of the musical artist, to fingers and hands developed to the acme of feeling and responsiveness, the tone and touch of a piano is paramount.

For over 108 years, Heintzman & Co. have been making fine pianos that are renowned for these priceless qualities, and for generations the Heintzman has been a treasured possession in homes from coast to coast. Our representatives in Victoria are Fletchers, with whom we have enjoyed a happy relationship for many years. And it is upon the occasion of the completion of their store modernization program that we are happy to extend our congratulations and best wishes for their continued progress.

Mark Another Milestone In Long Victoria History

In was in 1872 that Thomas Fletcher opened the doors of a with the city it serves. First location was at 93 Government with domestic sewing machines and organs on display.

Store was moved twice and in 1922 fire destroyed much of the stock in the Arcade Building site. The same year Fletchers moved to present location. For some years branches were operated in Nanaimo and Vancouver.

In 1900 the late James Fletcher took over from his father and in turn was succeeded by his son Walter J. Fletcher, current president and managing director.

Maintaining progressive policy throughout its history Fletchers have been associated with the development of recorded and radio music, while pianos and musical instruments have always been a dominant feature at the store.

Fletchers were quick to realize the future in radio. In the early twenties they carried the first battery sets and today the radio salon is a showroom for all the leading makes.

Looking to the future television rates as a coming department. Showrooms for electrical appliances reflect the changing times with ever new models and innovations offered patrons.

Campaign Nets $500 at Sooke

Mrs. Grant Soutar secretary-treasurer of the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute reported that the Sooke district Red Cross campaign netted more than $500.

The figure was $170 more than that collected for the Red Cross last year.

Mrs. Walter Conder, a trustee of the Milnes Landing High School Scholarship Fund, read the rules drawn up for the 1952 award. The rules were adopted in their entirety by the Institute meeting.

Latest addition to the scholarship fund was a $100 donation from the B.C. Electric Railway Co.

Mrs. Allan Smith won a prize for a garden apron to be exhibited at the forthcoming handicraft show April 20. Convener of the exhibit, Mrs. H. W. Clowes, reported on progress.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"SORT" AND "TO SORT OUT"

One of the commonest of common words is "sort." "This sort of thing and that sort of thing," we say, of things of one sort or another. And down through the centuries the term has covered many ideas in the romance languages, French and Italian, as well as in English. It's source is the Latin sors or sortis. Essentially this meant a kind or species, and out of this naturally came the idea of a class of things of similar qualities, for example: "a sort of poems, a sort of women."

Among the Elizabethans, the term had much broader scope than it has today, for example:

"Which for my part I covet to perform,
In sort as through the world I did proclaim." Spencer.

There is also Shakespeare's:

"I'll deceive you in another sort."

Out of the essential meaning of kind or class came the verb to sort, or to sort out. If you sort out cards, you arrange them by kind. And yet, such are the dynamics of our common speech, that one idea would never on the surface suggest the other.

Chamberlain May Return To Maritimes

MONCTON, N.B., April 10 — [illegible] ... Vancouver Canucks of the Pacific Coast League, coming to Moncton next season was seen here today.

Lebaron Reid, president of Moncton Hawks of the Maritime Major Hockey League, said he has discussed a "deal" with Chamberlain through which the former hardrock of the N.H.L. would become a part-owner and coach of the Hawks.

Reid said the deal still was in the "talking" stage and that no final plans would be made for at least several weeks. Outcome of the talks depend upon a "lot of things," Reid said. He declined to elaborate.

Chamberlain coached Charlottetown Islanders early in the season, leaving the Islanders to take over the Vancouver team.

MacMillan, Bloedel Announce Merger Into Giant Empire

Merger of two industrial giants into a vast $100,000,000 forest empire based mainly on Vancouver Island was announced yesterday.

In a joint statement the H. R. MacMillan Export Company and Bloedel Stewart & Welch announced they will merge into a company to be known as MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd.

The merger involves more than $100,000,000. Assets of the MacMillan Company are placed at $58,215,567. The value of Bloedel is placed at $40,000,000.

Each company will have a share in the new company in relation to assets and on terms to be submitted later to shareholders for final approval.

For the time being each firm will continue to operate under its present name.

NEW PROJECTS

Announcement of the merger came on the heels of news [illegible] that the MacMillan company would double [illegible] pulp mill [illegible] on a $16,000,000 expansion plan.

At the end of [illegible] the Bloedel company [illegible] new [illegible] development [illegible] build a new $1[illegible] pulp mill between the companies' pulp mill and recently [illegible] $1,500,000 sawmill, planing and chipper mill at Port Alberni.

The merged companies will employ [illegible] workers [illegible] of Vancouver Island and new projects will create 400 to 500 new jobs in the next two years.

AIMS OF MOVE

The joint statement said consolidation of the assets of the two companies is expected to:

1. Create more employment and improve the products manufactured from each acre of forest logged.

2. Assist in reaching the goal of operation in perpetuity so communities in which the firms operate can look forward to assured income and support.

3. Justify further expansion of pulp mill and plywood plant production at Nanaimo, Port Alberni and Vancouver.

4. [illegible] research in forest management and maximum wood utilization.

5. [illegible]

Further [illegible] new [illegible] increase in the present rate of logging but [illegible]

[illegible] in Eastern Canada [illegible] stock exchanges.

But it touched off a flurry of buying in Vancouver that spread over to shares of other B.C. forestry interests not involved in the merger.

Rumors of big news had been [illegible] market circles all morning, a Victoria broker said.

STOCK RISES

The market opened with MacMillan stock quoted at $27, dropping to $26 when no news had been heard. After 11 a.m. (P.S.T.) when news of the merger was announced [illegible] and sales of "A" and "B" MacMillan common stock rose to $28.25 where they stood when the market closed.

Bloedel Stewart & Welch Ltd., whose board chairman is J. H. Bloedel of Seattle, began logging in British Columbia in 1911.

H. R. MacMillan started his multi-million-dollar company here in 1919.

"Peace" Speaker Welcomed

The cheering crowd showered more than $417 in cash on the dapper [illegible] as he called for contributions for the cause of peace.

Originally publicized as a Conservative member of the London County Council, Dr. Woodard said he was now out of favor with the Conservative Party.

"I have absolute conviction of what I am," he told the audience, "and that is a Christian Pacifist."

Peace mongers, he said, are automatically dubbed Communists and [illegible] the [illegible] slander the peace movement.

"DON'T NEED IT"

"I don't need Communism," he said, "but if what I say makes me a Communist, then I am one."

The whole world problem is [illegible] a [illegible] issue, he said. [illegible] want peace or you want war.

Reiterating his pacifist views, Dr. Woodard said he was a "birth [illegible]" and that on no account even to save the lives of his children, would he take another life.

[illegible] world affairs he said he had studied Stalin and Russia and found nothing for which he could condemn the Russian leader, but that the evils of the United States were "patently obvious."

POLICE IDLE

He said that at the Canadian Peace Congress rally in Toronto 4,000 hecklers tried to break up the meeting and that Toronto police stood by idly.

"I despise Canada for that," Dr. Woodard said.

His assertion that General Douglas MacArthur was a "raving lunatic" and that the U.S. had the most dishonest politicians "in the world" brought applause from the audience.

"There are 48 American states," he said. "Britain has become the 49th and you are very likely to become the 51st."

The horrors of atomic war are still with us, he said, and women are still bearing "monster children" in Hiroshima. More people died of radiation blood disease after the bomb was dropped than died from the explosion, he declared.

NEARER CHRIST

Speaking of a "spiritual awakening" in Poland and China, Dr. Woodard said "the nearer you go to Moscow, the nearer you get to Christ."

He said there was a depression throughout Britain and more suicides and neuroses than ever in her history.

Answering a question from the floor, he said that there "was not a hope of a Conservative Government being returned to power in Britain."

"We don't want any war leaders like Churchill in England," he said. "Let them stay in Formosa."

"There were 500,000,000 of the world people interested in preserving peace," he said, "and there is no man, woman or child who sees any reason why there should be a U.S., Canadian or British citizen in Korea today."

He called the Marshall Plan a "mockery" and said that the world was fighting a "capitalistic war again."

There was no opposition to Dr. Woodard's address and questions from the floor were few. One man said he thought Dr. Woodard had ignored the evils of the East.

"We cannot ignore that great evils exist on both sides," the questioner said, "and I don't think anything can be gained by attacking [illegible] the evils of the Western democracies."

Dr. Woodard said he was aware of shortcomings in the East.

Shock Cure for Smoker

Take it away, Mr. Abbott, take it away. News that Federal Finance Minister had included 3 per cent increase in tax on package of cigarettes and nearly doubled 67-cent tax on pound of tobacco had a lot of people, including Colonist Reporter Barney McKinley, ready to quit smoking today. He may not make it stick, but it won't be because he likes paying 49 cents for smokes. Tax jump went into effect immediately.

Colonist Photo by Jim Ryan

Happy prospect of lower prices for candy, chocolate and chewing gum was implied in yesterday's Federal budget announcement. Youngsters like Jimmy Poyner, 11, of 931 Maddison may get benefit of 15 per cent reduction in tax on these goods, one of few sweet notes in budget.

Wage Increase Under Study

Very serious consideration is being given the recent request of Provincial Government [illegible] for a 15 per cent across the board wage increase, Provincial Secretary W. T. Straith stated last night in the Legislature.

He was replying to Robert Bowgen (C.C.F. Grand Forks-Greenwood) who asked if employees would receive wage boosts to make up for recent increases in the cost of living index.

Mr. Straith said investigation of the wage request was now being made. The present application was being considered on its merits and was not tied to the cost of living index, stated the minister. "The fact that estimates are passed before a decision is made on the application won't affect the outcome," he said.

School Site At Parksville Nearly Cleared

PARKSVILLE, April 10.—Clearing of the site of the new junior high school at Parksville is nearing completion. Tenders for construction will be called in June.

This was announced by school trustee [illegible] at the regular monthly meeting of Parksville Parent-Teachers Association.

Cost of the building and equipment will amount to $225,000.

J. Neden of Parksville has the tender for clearing of the site.

Conciliators Named In Civic Pay Dispute

A CONCILIATION board has been called in to settle another civic wage dispute.

A board under the chairmanship of Percy Gomery, Vancouver, will start sitting at 10 a.m. Thursday to try to effect an agreement between the City of Victoria and its outside staff of more than 250 employees.

The union is seeking wage increases averaging $10 monthly to bring workers up to the Vancouver scale.

Roy Whittle is union nominee and R. W. Davey, K.C., city appointee to the board.

"Never Had a Cent"

Testifying on his own behalf, Walls declared that he had never intended to defraud Scott and had never had "a cent of the money."

Walls asserted that Scott was now in a much better position than he ever was because he has [illegible] $10,000.

He has [illegible] claim on any money [illegible] back from Gillies.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Martin, Walls admitted issuing cheques to Gillies in various deals.

FLOWED LIKE WATER

"They were coming and going like water," the elderly barrister said.

"It was only in the last four or five years we got so involved," he added.

Asked why he had continued to associate with Gillies, Walls replied that [illegible] pressed [illegible] time to time.

DIDN'T CHECK

Walls said he took Gillies' word as to the alleged investments and did not investigate them himself.

Walls said he had had "no peace of mind" until he was convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary term he is now serving.

Asked where all the money had gone, Walls said, nodding his head, that he could only think it had "got into the hands of sharpers."

Walls said he was not sure whether he or Gillies received the money from Scott at the December 1947 meeting.

AFRAID

Asked why he had signed a confession at Scott's home later, admitting that he never used the money for the purpose for which Scott trusted him but instead handed it over to Gillies, Walls [illegible]

[illegible] eye on the edge of the table and later lay the [illegible] said.

Mr. Justice Macfarlane commented [illegible] H. F. [illegible] had been a witness to the signing of the statement [illegible]

"HE GETS ANGRY"

Walls said that he understood only that Scott and Gillies were going into business together and that he was to be custodian of funds.

Walls said he [illegible] out to [illegible] Scott only once.

[illegible] Gillies [illegible] to him and told him that the owner was hard [illegible] the estate of a Mr. Grau who owned [illegible] off Sidney valued at $25,000. An American was [illegible] of Mr. Grau's was offered $3,000 to set up a sausage business. In return for the [illegible] he would [illegible] a $1,000 [illegible] Gillies said, according to Scott.

"BIT CONFUSED"

Walls yesterday said that Mr. Scott was "a bit confused about the island."

Earlier, Paul Grau, resident of an island off Canoe Cove, near Sidney, testified that he had lent Walls and Gillies $2,000 and had got only $300 back from Walls.

Following brief addresses to the jury by Mr. Martin and Walls, the trial was adjourned until this morning for Mr. Justice Macfarlane's charge to the jury.

Butter Price Drops Again

By W. T. GALT
Colonist Business Editor

Butter prices took another four-cent drop yesterday.

It was the third big dip in a two-week procedure that has brought wholesale butter quotations down from a high of 79 cents to yesterday's level at 64 cents a pound.

Fruit and vegetable prices also continue to get easier and easier on the housewife's budget.

But egg prices, which dealers recently thought might be on the way down, may instead be starting to climb again.

STORING EGGS

Egg reports indicate that Prairie and Eastern producers are beginning to store eggs for higher prices.

And one local egg producer said large-scale deaths among innoculated chicks in the Fraser Valley this year might lead to higher egg prices here.

A dealer said the best hope for lower prices in Victoria would be a drop in egg prices in the United States which would allow Victoria dealers to import lower priced eggs.

Yesterday's big butter price drop, the third in two weeks, brings the price of butter back to only four or five cents above its level a few weeks ago when Government stored supplies were still available.

BUYING RUN

When Government-held stocks were exhausted, butter prices jumped 20 cents overnight and housewives rushed to buy out all the old-price butter in sight.

Once the higher-priced butter began appearing on grocer's shelves, housewives stopped buying.

After staying at about 84 cents retail for a week or so, prices dipped about five cents at the first of the month. They dropped another five or six during the following week before yesterday's third big drop of four cents.

One butter wholesaler said that some dealers had been hard hit by the rapid price changes in butter.

He said that at the same time a [illegible] stopped buying a warm spell on the Prairies increased production and prices fell so rapidly that some dealers lost as much as 19 cents a pound in some transactions.

FRUITS CHEAPER

Oranges are cheaper this week than they were last week. So are lemons. Asparagus is becoming more plentiful and less expensive.

Cabbage prices are right back to normal. About a month ago they hit an almost record seasonal price when Texas cabbage patches were frozen and the crop spoiled or delayed.

This week the wholesale price is down to half of what it was then.

Celery and cucumber prices are lower this week than last.

So far very little rhubarb is available, but local crops are getting ready for the market. Local cauliflower is also still scarce but on the way.

[illegible] good [illegible] and a new shipment of Lethbridge potatoes has arrived in the city.

Mexican hothouse tomatoes will cost more next week. But within a month local hothouse tomatoes will be on the market.

And there are still enough bananas to meet the demand.

Resolution Urges Inflation Measures

CITY Council yesterday gave its unanimous approval to a four-point resolution aimed at combatting the mounting inflationary pressure on Canadians.

The resolution, sponsored by Alderman William Pinfold, will be forwarded to all major Canadian municipalities and the Federal Government.

It asks the senior Government to take immediate measures to stop the inflationary pressures of wages and prices, eliminate all unnecessary spending as an example to the nation, impress upon citizens the necessity of a "pay as you go" policy and take all necessary measures to assure the stability of the country's economy.

Distribution Main Problem

FANNY BAY, April 10 — This area has been assured of plenty of power by the B.C. Power Commission.

But Power Commission chairman S. R. Weston told a group of delegates that the main problem is in distribution of the power.

The ten-man delegation, headed by William Kierstead, was received by the commission in Victoria last Friday to discuss the question fully.

Introduction of a 60,000-volt line, which would add ample power for a long period of time, may have to wait until more power is generated at Elk Falls.

Offer of Site Lost in Files

THE City of Victoria has until November, 1952, to accept a Provincial Government offer of Blanshard Street property for a new City Hall site.

Known as the "Cathedral site," it is the west half of the property bounded by Blanshard, Courtney, Quadra and Burdett.

The Government made the offer November 7, 1949, but council only got around to considering the offer officially yesterday.

The reason: The letter containing the offer inadvertently had been overlooked in a file in Mayor Percy E. George's office.

The Mayor had, however, acknowledged receipt of the letter soon after receiving it.

The Government informed the city the property would be transferred at a "nominal fee." The offer was good for three years.

Arrest of Youth Sparks Probe; Police Find Loot From Schools

Arrest of an 18-year-old youth Sunday touched off a Saanich police investigation that yesterday led to the recovery of $2,000 worth of stolen property.

The property had been stolen during the past two years from nine Greater Victoria schools and other places, police said.

Arrested in connection with the thefts and charged with retaining stolen goods valued at more than $25 in a special sitting of Saanich police court yesterday morning was Robert Starkey, 18, 3151 Orillia. He was remanded to Thursday for hearing.

Two juveniles have also been arrested in connection with the case, Saanich police disclosed.

Months of work on the part of Saanich police constables Joseph Armstrong, Robert Adrian and Robert Coleman, assisted by City Detectives Pearson Woodburn and Norman Bath, preceded the arrest.

Constable Armstrong said that as far as he knew none of the stolen property had ever been sold or traded. "So our usual lines of investigation were absolutely dead," he added.

Police say the arrest of Roger Laverdure, 18, 1107 Caledonia Avenue, Sunday, on a charge of stealing [illegible] and [illegible] valued at more than $25 led to investigation which resulted in the arrest of Starkey. He will also appear in Saanich police court Thursday.

Constable Adrian said last night that a total of seven youths have now been arrested and one will appear today in juvenile court.

He said that about $100 worth of additional stolen property had been recovered last night and he more [illegible]

The Supreme Court will be asked [illegible] to determine whether a $17,000 [illegible] a Victoria [illegible] should go to a cancer fund or relatives of the late Helen Stewart, 4015 Braefoot Road.

John Bird, executor of the estate, yesterday filed a petition in the Supreme Court registry asking the court to decide the matter.

Mrs. Stewart, formerly of Regina, died here last February, a little less than a year after her husband died of cancer.

She bequeathed $100 to four friends.

The remainder she directed to be turned over "to a fund to be known as the C. Wallace Stewart Memorial Fund."

Huge Defence Spending Seen

LONDON, April 10 (AP)—The four Big Powers propose to spend almost $72,000,000,000 for defence during the 1951-52 fiscal year—the greatest military expenditure in peacetime history.

The breakdown:

The United States—$41,421,000,000.

Russia—96,000,000,000 rubles (about $24,000,000,000) at the Soviet evaluation of the ruble.

Victoria to Keep Poll Tax Even if Province Ends It

Victorians will continue to pay poll tax even though the Provincial Government abolishes it for unorganized territory.

Aldermen queried yesterday felt abolition of the tax in the city would not be advisable. Revenue from the tax last year was $22,124.

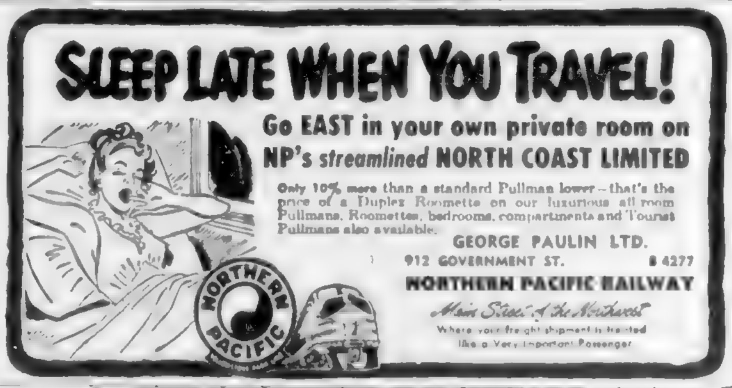

Said Mayor Percy E. George: "I'm against letting the poll tax. It is desirable because it is the one tax that enables us to get revenue from those who aren't taxed directly on properties or pay business taxes such as trades licences."

Payment of poll taxes by non-property owners helps to relieve the burden on the homeowners, the Mayor said. He felt young people who have had free education should contribute to the community when they come of age.

Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb, Monday, introduced legislation [illegible] abolish the tax in unorganized territory after January 1, 1952.

Alderman Frank Mu[illegible] said: "The city can't afford to lose a revenue."

Food Affects Health And Physique

By DR. J. B. WARREN

Research workers on food and nutrition state that the greatest single factor in attaining and maintaining good health is perfectly constituted food. No other single factor—race, climate, disease common to the district—has so profound an influence as food.

The physique of the races of Northern India was strikingly superior to that of the southern, eastern and western races. The northern Indians lived on whole wheat, milk and milk products, vegetables and fruit; those of southern, eastern and western districts lived on rice and inferior cereals which are further reduced in food value by parboiling, milling or polishing, and they had little milk or milk products.

Coalition Certain Storm Will Abate

—IN THE LEGISLATURE—

The Legislature will sit as a committee on estimates again today. The House opens at 2:30 p.m.

By LAWRIE JOSLIN

The boys on the Government side of the House are convinced that the storm clouds of hospital insurance will disappear from the political horizons.

They are sure, too, that they have not lost the confidence of the people as suggested by a C.C.F. want-of-confidence motion brought to the floor of the House yesterday by Opposition Leader Harold Winch.

JOSLIN

"AS NEVER BEFORE"

Mr. Winch declared people had been disturbed by the hospital insurance legislation "as they've never been disturbed before." He charged the Government with stalling on demands for changes in the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration act, which it knew labor and management wanted.

Andrew Whisker (Cln., Cowichan-Newcastle) and Maurice Finnerty (Cln., Similkameen), both of whom opposed the Government on hospital insurance, rose to the Government's defence in yesterday's verbal melee.

"However I may disagree on one point . . . I cannot find myself selling out this Government for a $9 increase in hospital insurance premiums," declared Mr. Whisker. "When I consider the records and the plans before us . . . I have every confidence in the Government."

INDIRECT SUPPORT

Mr. Finnerty said a vote in support of non-confidence in "this free-enterprise Government" was indirectly a vote in support of the Socialists.

Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, Victoria M.L.A., argued the Government was living up to its promises to bring industry to British Columbia.

He described as "absolutely ridiculous" the hospital insurance protest petitions now being circulated.

Arthur Turner (C.C.F., Vancouver East) said that for the first time in his ten years as a Member of the House he had known members of the Opposition to receive commendation from Liberal organizations.

Declaring critics are vocal, S. J. Smith (Cln., Kamloops) asserted they are responsible for "all the hubbub."

People should be proud to be served by a Government which has remained free from suspicion of corruption, he said.

"I'm sure it won't be very long before the people will be cheering for this Government again," asserted Thomas King (Cln., Columbia). "I don't think the country has lost confidence in this Government."

Speaker of the House Mrs. Nancy Hodges had to check up on members several times yesterday in order to preserve the decorum of the House.

TOO PERSONAL

During consideration of a motion of Opposition Leader Winch urging an inquiry into liquor control, the Speaker was forced to request members to stop dealing in personalities.

Arthur Ash (Cln., Saanich) had just called W. A. C. Bennett (Ind., South Okanagan "sanctimonious" in his attitude which favored an inquiry and "the great Poo-Bah from the South Okanagan." Mr. Bennett objected strenuously.

Attorney-General Wismer said very few had announced where they stood on the liquor issue as he had done. He told the House he had received many letters from people praising him for his stand.

Mr. Winch said it was not just a question of whether cocktail bars should be allowed, but it was a technical matter involving the handling of liquor in the province.

Without an inquiry into the liquor question, a plebiscite would not provide an intelligent answer, he said.

The inquiry resolution was defeated by a vote of 35 to 9.

Kashmir War Topic of Talk To City Club

The military and over-all political significance of warfare in Kashmir, northern province of India, was discussed by Major H. S. C. Archbold at a meeting of the Victoria Electric Club.

Major Archbold, a former member of the club, recently returned from India after spending 16 months as a United Nations representative and liaison officer in the area. Seven and one-half months were spent as a military arbiter along the 1949 cease-fire line between Kashmir and Pakistan.

BETTER INFORMATION

Major Archbold stressed the need for better information about Indian attempts at self-sufficiency since British rule was withdrawn following the World War.

Officers elected at the meeting were A. B. Food, president; William C. Mearns, vice-president; R. W. Patrick, secretary; Allan Jensen, treasurer; S. E. Jarvis, T. W. Mawson, Frank Waring, Arthur Button, Alan W. Lutes and Wilbur Mais, directors.

Victoria City Inside Staff Studies Offer

City of Victoria's inside staff numbering 190 employees will meet on Thursday night to consider the city's offer of 11 per cent wage boosts retroactive to January 1.

City Council yesterday approved the finance committee recommen-

At a noontime meeting yesterday, the inside staff "re-affirmed" its previous decision that the conciliation board recommendation be accepted in full. The recommendation was for wage increases starting at $14 a month January 1 and rising to $22 April 1. The board also called for a quarterly wage revision throughout the year to keep wages tied to the cost-of-living index. The first part of the recommendation amounts to a 10-per-cent boost over a period of a year.

BALKS AT CLAUSE

Balking at the escalator clause, the finance committee offered a straight 11 per cent from the start of this year. This was presented to the inside staff yesterday but will not be discussed until Thursday. It is understood the offer wasn't discussed at the noon meeting because it hadn't been cleared by City Council which was to meet later in the afternoon.

At the council meeting Alderman MacMillan suggested the escalator clause remain "because it would work both ways." He felt, however, the cost of living would not increase much more this year.

Alderman Pinfold contended the estimates have to be prepared and "we can't deal with an unknown quantity."

"We feel this is a reasonable compromise," he said.

"I don't think the cost of living will rise enough to bother the estimates," replied Alderman MacMillan.

Alderman Doubts Club Should Pay

—COUNCIL BRIEFS—

Alderman Percy Scurrah doesn't think the Victoria baseball club should have to pay for replacing wind-damaged Royal Athletic Park bleachers.

"The tenant is not responsible to pay for the work," he said at City Council yesterday. "If the city was so unwise as not to have wind damage insurance it certainly isn't the responsibility of the club to pay. We have no right to ask for money."

He made his remarks during discussion of a parks committee recommendation that the work be done at a cost of $2,000, but that the club be asked to reimburse the City "if and when" it is financially able.

Alderman William Pinfold reminded the alderman it was club officials who first suggested they would pay for the work when the baseball company was in a better financial position.

Council approved the committee recommendation in full.

RATES UP

Victoria Nursing Home Society informed the council that rates would be increased from $75 to $90 monthly effective May 1.

RETIRED POLICEMEN

Alderman Frank Mulliner suggested retired policemen could handle the job of patrolling the city's parking meters. He made the remark during discussion of a Corps of Commissionaires' offer to do the work. The letter was referred to the public works and transportation committees.

EARLIER DATE

Council granted permission to Royal Canadian Shows to start its one-week stand at Victoria West Park September 17 instead of September 24.

Fire Department, City Hall Staff Slashes Proposed

STRENGTH of the city fire department and the City Hall staff should be cut in half, Harry Langley, 1010 Foul Bay Road, said in a letter to City Council yetserday.

"Any increase in salaries must be borne chiefly by the home owners who usually have no way of increasing their incomes," said Mr. Langley.

After the fire department strength has been slashed, the writer felt a volunteer department should be formed to augment the force.

"Deny all pay increases in the interst of economy and the national emergency," wrote Mr. Langley.

Potato-Destroyer

Golden Nematode Threat Tightens Plant Inspection

By BARNEY McKINLEY

Menace of the golden nematode, destroyer of potato and other plants, has caused stringent application of inspection regulations in Victoria.

W. W. De Macedo, senior inspector of the Federal Department of Agriculture's plant inspection office here, said yesterday nursery parcels from Europe were now being allowed through this port without a plant inspection stamp from the country of origin.

This rule, he said, applied to plants, shrubs and bulbs from the United Kingdom and Ireland, as well as countries of the European mainland.

FEAR INVASION

Clampdown on plant imports not bearing the official inspection stamp of the exporting country was prompted by a fear the golden nematode would reach the potato and other crops of this area.

The destroyer, a thin, golden worm invisible to the naked eye, has been found on many plants, including heather from Scotland, and is known to infest European areas.

Its introduction to Vancouver Island could mean a serious blow to the Island's present healthy sales of certified seed potatoes, the inspector pointed out.

PARCELS STOPPED

Three parcels, including a rhododendrun from the King's estate in England, had been stopped from reaching consignees in the past ten days, he reported.

Two of the parcels were destroyed and the rhododendrun plant held at the customs after an inquiry cable from the United Kingdom was received regarding the plant.

The inspector said small parcels sent as gifts were a worse threat than commercial imports.

Accepted Benefits Before

Police Expected to Ask For Increase in Wages

The police union, earlier this year, asked for wage increases but after negotiations settled for increased superannuation benefits and other minor items. They were the first to start bargaining for a 1951 agreement and gave in to the city's plea that no wage boosts could be afforded.

Latest developments, however, probably will result in the police asking for wage increases because firemen have been granted boosts, and the inside staff has had increases recommended. Police union officials are silent on any planned action.

There is every indication that police will be successful in their bid because civic officials think they "played ball" in not pressing wage demands.

Legally, the policemen don't have a strong case because their agreement has been signed and closed until the end of the year. Morally, however, it is felt in civic circles that the policemen are entitled to a boost.

Action will come soon because all city negotiations must be completed by April 15.

Drives Without Eyeglasses, Trucker Fined Total of $25

Sardara Singh Bains, 825 Roderick, charged twice on the same day for failing to wear adequate eyeglasses while driving with a restricted driver's licence, was fined a total of $25 in city police court yesterday.

Two traffic officers said accused was discovered twice driving without glasses on March 5.

Bains said he had been wearing his glasses all that day while driving his wood truck.

LACKS LICENCES

G. W. Rooks, 20, 2859 Cedar Hill Road, pleaded guilty to driving without a current driver's licence and was fined $25.

Edward A. Longland, R.R. 2, pleaded guilty to a similar charge and was also fined $25.

Harold W. Martin, 20, Colquitz, charged with careless driving, and unlawfully having beer in his possession while under the age of 21, pleaded not guilty and was remanded to Friday for trial.

Court Rules Against Agent

The British Columbia Court of Appeal yesterday ruled in favor of an Okanagan man who, after listing property with a real estate agent who found a purchaser for it, decided not to sell and objected to paying the agent's commission.

The lower court had found in favor of A. E. Tombs, Vernon real estate agent, who sued T. C. Tesluk, Vernon sawmill operator, for a commission, after finding a buyer for Tesluk's property.

Yesterday, the Appeal Court allowed Tesluk's appeal against the ruling.

Court dismissed the appeal of John Olynk, Vancouver, against a four-year sentence for armed robbery.

Need to Control War Hysteria Cited By Bishop Sexton in Charge to Synod

War hysteria, prevalent in the United States and endangering the world, can best be controlled by a "central peace" born of Christain faith, Bishop Harold Sexton said last night.

Calling the "central peace" a vital need, "not least for the world's statesmen," Bishop Sexton said only with Christ's peace can the men ever hope to achieve world peace.

HITS LOOSE TALK

"Most of us probably wish that wise British statesmenship was more in evidence at the present time, and that there was less irresponsible talk by persons in positions of authority, particularly in Korea," he stated.

"The cause of the world's peace is not yet lost . . . this is a time for cool heads, for firm feet, for prayer and high resolve in the service of God," he said.

"Remember, we cannot reasonably expect the state to succeedd where the home fails," he declared.

In a brief reference to "growing intemperance," the bishop voiced his concern over the "consequent menace to safety on our highways."

"Our political leaders . . . having made some provision in the schools for instruction in a temperate way of life, might well consider whether the conditions under which liquor is consumed in this province are capable of improvement," he said.

Home Sweet Home

It's nice to get home after being away, where we stayed with my sister . . . Peggy Bray. Yes, it's nice to return to the same old scene, & relax again in the old routine. Yet it's good, I think, every once in awhile, to fly the coop for a little while. Especially good for a Joe like me, peddling to you . . . this pot-pourri. (That DOES SO rhyme, if you are wary, I just leafed it up in the dictionary). More often, I think, I'll make this manoeuvre, as lots of fresh copy I found in Vancouver. The main difference I thought 'bout that there . . . to live like us. But farther & farther they have to go, to find a place for a bungalow. Even creeping up mountains in their flight, where the lawns aren't green, but mostly snow-white. And you have to plan, & deadly aim, if you want to get to a hockey game. So different from here, to gloat in the spoils, when watching the Cougars, chew up the Royals. Where we don't have to worry 'bout being late, just pile in the bus 'bout ten past 8. Yes . . . that's the main difference that I can see, we live over here, more leisurelee. But they've got us skinned in one or two ways, those horseshoe beaches & warm water bays. And their harbor, I'd say, has a little more room, & doesn't get clogged with the odd log boom. And they've a bridge over there, that's hard to beat, & I'd say it's more graceful than OUR "Johnson Street." Theirs is quite a bit longer, is gracefully bent, & it isn't cluttered up with a great hunk of cement. It even smells better, I was close beside, theirs hasn't that scent, when low is the tide. And that Park they have, there's something to see, they even have a place for cookies & tea. And monkeys, too, for poets & peasants, & strolling about are the peacocks & pheasants. And they don't mind at all, if you're not so hot, & and want to practise a bit, on your mashie shot. The idea, I think, so all can have fun, not just for elderly folks to sit in the sun. You can have fun, changing your mind, with this sectional furniture of a DIFFERENT kind.

"Moderne Moodern Mood," & it's magic stuff, selling so fast, we can't get enuff. For the very first time, the men stop & stare, because for them there is an armchair. So don't make a mistake, which COULD be tragic, come on down, and see this "magic." But apart from more people making more fuss, Vancouverites, I think, more sleepy than us. The reason, of course, quite easy to find, it takes them so long to get to their grind. And they can't get a seat on a bus or a tram, so they sleep standing up in this neck-breathing jam. Modern buildings they have, yet a paradox, a pint of milk next door, in an old apple-box. And lots of houses so close together, there doesn't seem room for their murky weather. Plus a hideous sameness, all in a row, on the 30 ft. lots of long ago. So they're crying over there, like kids for "Castoria," they need the relief that WE have in Victoria. On the boat coming home, I had a pow-wow, with a man who stayed, right up in the bow. "Aren't you freezing up here," I asked in kind words. "I'm NOT Following," he replied, "but Ahead of the Birds."

HEARD IN HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 10 (INS).—Joan Leslie, who is prettier and birth of her twins, is leaving her babies long enough to accept Harry Joe Brown's offer to play the femme lead in "Man in the Saddle." As you've guessed by the title, this is a Western with Randy Scott and Alexander Knox as the he-men heroes.

But, personally, I'm glad she's coming back to the screen because she's a delightful young actress and with her talent she shouldn't stop her career.

ROLE FOR RUTH ROMAN

Appropriate, I call it, that Jack Warner has set Ruth Roman to star in "Starlift," the story of the Travis Air Force Base, where our boys take off and return from Korea.

Ruth was the first Hollywood actress to appear there to cheer the wounded. When she returned she was so eager to get other stars there that she put on a private telephone campaign telling Hollywood folk the need.

HIGH PRICE OF NYPE

If Hollywood wants Russell Nype for the movies it can jolly well pay $50,000 per picture for him—this being the price M.C.A. is asking for the juvenile of "Call Me Madam." Not bad for a young man who was an Arthur Murray dance instructor two years ago.

Pardon me for mentioning it—but I doubt if the Duchess of Windsor's preference for Nype as a dancing partner has hurt his film price either.

Nype has a crush on Betsy von Furstenberg, called the most promising young actress of the year for her performance with Clive Brooks in "Second Threshold."

Actually, Betsy is engaged to Peter Howard, son of Anita and Lin Howard of the Seabiscuit clan. She also has her eye on a film career. When her play closes she'll hie herself to Hollywood for a test.

RANDOM SNAPSHOTS

Bob Taylor took his private plane with him to Kanab, Utah, on location. He'll use that to fly to Hollywood week-ends to see Barbara Stanwyck.

Jeff Chandler is hosting a cocktail party at Jack's at the beach, honoring Eve Arden. It marks her third anniversary on the air as "Our Miss Brooks." Jeff is her leading man.

A sweet wire from Winnie Baxter. She tells me Warner is better, and what heartening news that is to all of us who are friends of the Baxters—good news also to Warner's many admirers.

A postcard from Baby and Bogey from the Le Pavillon de la Grande Cascade Restaurant in the Bois de Boulogne. The Bogarts are crazy about Paris and are now on their way to Rome and Africa. When they come back to England their son, Stephen, will meet them.
